

Italy Admits Large Damage To Genoa Base

Supply Port for African Axis Forces Blasted by RAF.

By LEO BRANHAM.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—American fighter planes shot up troop-laden German trucks, military posts and gun emplacements in low-level strafing assaults on the continent today after the RAF struck a destructive new blow overnight at Genoa, Italian supply port for battered Axis forces in North Africa.

Hundreds of bombs, from 1,000-pounders up to the two-ton block-busters, fell on Genoa for 25 minutes, the air ministry said, starting hundreds of explosions, and fires which roared through warehouses bulging with Axis supplies and sending clouds of smoke rolling out over the Gulf of Genoa.

One pilot of a four-motored Halifax said he saw "a fire start at one end of a line of warehouses on a strip of land jutting into the inner harbor and spread along the whole line."

RAF fighters also made small-scale daylight raids on the continent, sighting up and bombing trucks and a locomotive near Le Treport and a factory near Brachy, southwest of Dieppe in France, and barges on the Bruges-Ostend canal in Belgium.

One of the Americans flew so low over a factory that his plane hit a tree, but he managed to return to base.

The Nazis' desert forces, scattered under the rain of machine-gun and cannon fire turned on them by the Americans, led by First Lieutenant Eugene M. Potter, of Chicago, United States air headquarters announced that casualties were inflicted among the Germans, and war stores were destroyed.

In both last night's 1,500-mile RAF round trip to Genoa and in today's American raids not a single Allied plane was lost.

spanned the 200 miles of Mediterranean to Tunis, destroying six large grounded German planes and damaging others in a low-level attack on the airfield at dusk Saturday. Medium bombers returned that night to attack repair shops and hangars. Their action was in support of the British First army and its United States Allies moving through western Tunisia in a co-ordinated drive to clear all Africa of the enemy.

The British think the scattered African corps may attempt to stand at El Aghelia. There is a geography approximately that of the El Alamein line in Egypt where the British drive started.

Practically impassable salt marshes to the south narrow the maneuverable passageway to about 30 miles, which Rommel in the past has studied liberally with mine fields. It was at El Aghelia that he halted the last British offensive and recoiled to drive the eighth army back into Egypt.

Rommel's survivors, however, have lost so much equipment that they are virtually impotent, the British say. But a determined rear guard stand at the defile might slow the British into a frontal attack. This would be costly to both armies, but the British believe Rommel imperatively needs time to land reinforcements and material or see his remaining force utterly destroyed or surrendered.

In all their raids from Libya to Tunisia the Allies have lost five planes to ground fire and Axis opposition in the French protectorate.

NO ROLL CALL

ROCHELLE, Ga., Nov. 16.—According to the Rev. L. D. Jordan, county chairman of the Red Cross, there will be no roll call of the Red Cross this fall, as has been the custom in past years. The roll call and war drive will be made together in March, 1943.

RICKENBACKER HONORED—A life-sized oil portrait of Captain Eddie Rickenbacker was unveiled at the Rickenbacker Aircraft Training School in Marietta yesterday. The ceremony marked the opening of the new school, which will help furnish skilled workmen for the Bell bomber plant, James V. Carmichael (left), Cobb county attorney, and Lawrence F. Kent, chairman of the county board of education, led in the dedication ceremony.

because we are beyond the age limit, not physically fit, can find a way to serve in industry. "This is important because in Cobb county will be built the planes that will bring peace by bombing Berlin and Tokyo."

Life Is Reviewed. Reviewing Rickenbacker's life, Carmichael said the flyer "played with death" first in automobile racing at Indianapolis to help develop the auto industry, then pioneered in aviation in France when "planes were little more than flying orange crates."

"Rickenbacker has done more than anyone else to develop air transportation in the southeast," Carmichael said.

The Rickenbacker school, which was launched last week with two night classes and 25 students each, will accommodate 400 by the turn of the year, Kent said. It will be operated in three eight-hour shifts, maintaining classes 24 hours each day.

Complete Workshops. Classes will include all forms of metal working and a complete machine shop, Kent said, adding: "We have only two girls in the first two classes. But the number of girls will be increased when we open the day school two weeks from now."

"We anticipate training at least 75 per cent girls." The school was sponsored by the county board of education and was outfitted with $50,000 worth of equipment supplied by the United States Office of Education. The first group will complete their training within about 12 weeks. Other classes will be started at four-week intervals, Kent said, until the school has reached a 24-hour basis and classes will eventually be graduated every two weeks.

Mother and Child Killed in Crash

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 16.—(AP) Mrs. W. T. Gaddis, of Jacksonville, Fla., and her 3-year-old daughter, Mary Wesley, were fatally injured Saturday night when the automobile in which they were riding left the highway and overturned six miles south of here.

Mrs. Gattis' husband and their two sons, Gerald and Herman, received serious injuries and were admitted to a local hospital.

Hoyt Forrester Is Decorated On British Isle

Decatur Sergeants, Four Other Georgians Are Honored.

William Hoyt Forrester, a former Decatur service station operator, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Forrester, 116 Avery street, Decatur, yesterday was awarded the Air Medal for "extraordinary or exceptionally meritorious achievement," according to Associated Press advices from London.

Forrester, now a gunnery sergeant, was one of 120 men attached to the Army's Eighth Air Force, who were decorated yesterday in ceremonies held somewhere in England.

He has been in service about 18 months, and overseas about three months. Sergeant Forrester has two other brothers, Ray and James Lee Forrester, who are on duty in the Army Air Corps. They are both still undergoing training.

Other Georgians with the outfit and decorated were: Franklin O. Abbot, of Pitts, Ga., awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received in action; Chester C. Love, 310 East Charlton street, Savannah; Charles M. Nease, 1222 Collins street, Savannah, and Frank M. Wall, 303 West 43rd street, Savannah, all awarded the Air Medal.

STABBED TO DEATH. Millie Mae Matthews, 26, Negro, of 75 Bell street, N. E., was found stabbed to death last night in a Negro hotel, according to Radio Patrolmen D. L. Taylor and L. L. Holland. The woman was stabbed in the head and the right arm, police said.

Japan, Italy Still Annihilating American Fleet by Propaganda

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The United States Navy's announcement of the spectacular victory over a Japanese fleet in the Solomon Islands region came at the end of a day of spectacular boasting by Japanese and Italian propagandists.

Japanese spokesmen repeatedly annihilated the American Navy, torpedoing it with short waves, and the Rome radio was at the point of capturing all the Solomon Islands for the Japanese.

Tokyo broadcasts recorded on the west coast tonight made no mention of the Navy communiqué today. In both English and Japanese languages Tokyo boasted of "successes" in the Solomons and in engagements going back as far as the Battle of the Coral sea.

The Federal Communications Commission reported that early this afternoon the Rome radio said in a Hungarian language broadcast:

"The United States is preparing the public for the loss of the Solomons."

Tokyo, speaking English this morning to the Philippines, Thailand and Burma, said:

"The Battle of the Solomons is proving fatal to the American Navy."

The Japanese news agency Domei, in a Morse code transmission to the United States, observed:

"The Japanese have the Americans where they want them, and mean to keep them there until no American warship is left in active service."

Tokyo, speaking in English to Australia:

"Results so far in the Guadalcanal area, announced Friday by imperial headquarters, represent a positive setback to the Americans. The Japanese have gained naval victories."

In a Spanish language transmission to South America Tokyo added up some towering figures and then said:

"These brilliant achievements are the most efficacious proof of the complete debacle of enemy attempts made against the invincible Japanese Navy, which will fulfill the destiny of these victorious battles in the sea, in the air, and on the ground by landing its forces to cleanse the island of enemies."

A penetration through the fog of such verbiage indicated that the Japanese were speaking of nothing more recent than the Solomons action of October 26, after which they made exaggerated claims of having sunk three American aircraft carriers, one battleship, three cruisers and a destroyer.

Fertilizer Group Will Meet Today

To MEN 18 AND 19 WHO WANT ACTION

RIGHT now the U. S. Army offers you many opportunities to serve your country. Certainly one of the most thrilling, most exciting branches of all for a red-blooded American is our modern, streamlined Infantry.

• For you can bet your boots that the Infantry will be there when the Nazi flag is torn down in Berlin. The Doughboys have always been in on the final victory since the dawn of history. And you'll certainly want to be there this time.

• Today's Infantry is a new, modernized combat unit. It includes more kinds of action than ever before. It gives you more kinds of adventure and training. Read about them carefully, for the Infantry is one of several branches of the Army which men of 18 and 19 may select today. Then talk to your nearest Recruiting Officer and get all the facts about the opportunities still open to you.

GANGWAY FOR THE INFANTRY

TANK BUSTERS—The Tank Destroyer Force of the Infantry is a new and powerful mechanized fighting unit. Its "tank busters" bristle with armor-piercing cannon and machine guns. They're regular 60-mile-an-hour fortresses on the move. The most effective weapons of their kind in modern warfare.

PARACHUTE TROOPS—Here they come, armed to the teeth. They float to earth by parachute from huge transport planes—daring men to do a vital job and do it well. They learn their business from the ground up and receive $50 a month in addition to their regular pay.

AIR-BORNE INFANTRY—Today's Infantry takes to the skies in more ways than one. Whole divisions of Air-borne Infantry, completely equipped with guns, cannon, ammunition and "jeeps," fly to battle in great transport planes, or soar swiftly and silently to earth in gliders to take the enemy by surprise.

HEAVY MOBILE FIRE-POWER—No Infantryman in the world has more deadly, more powerful guns to use. The new 37 mm. jeep-towed field gun has terrific fire-power. Jeeps, including amphibians, also mount 30 and 50 calibre machine guns, making them one of the most versatile battle cars of all time.

TANK BUSTERS—The Tank Destroyer Force of the Infantry is a new and powerful mechanized fighting unit. Its "tank busters" bristle with armor-piercing cannon and machine guns. They're regular 60-mile-an-hour fortresses on the move. The most effective weapons of their kind in modern warfare.

RIFLEMEN—No other Army on the globe equips its Infantrymen with a more efficient, more deadly hand weapon than the new Garand semi-automatic rifle. Superior in accuracy, in fire-power, in firing speed, this "one-man-gang-gun" gives our Doughboys the edge over any opponent.

MOUNTAIN TROOPS—The Infantry's Mountain Troops range high over lofty peaks, handling themselves as skilled mountaineers. Ski patrols, snowshoe patrols, pack units with mules and pack horses, and those who scale sheer mountainsides summer and winter, are part of the Infantry today.

KEEP 'EM FLYING!

MACHINE GUNNERS—Some of our Infantrymen command the barking muzzles of fast-firing, straight-shooting machine guns. Others are equipped with the newest, most modern long-range, rapid-fire weapons, automatic rifles, mortars, pistols, grenades, light and heavy anti-tank guns.

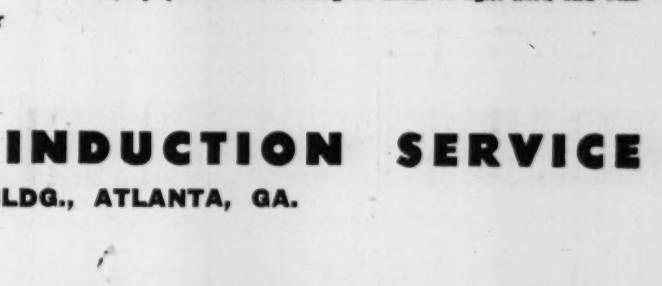

COMMUNICATIONS—In an army that moves like lightning, communications are vital. Infantrymen operate radio receivers and transmitters, "Walky-Talkies" one-man radio stations, telephones and telegraph equipment to guide movements of their own men and keep in touch with every other armed force in action.

MOTORIZED UNITS—In modern battle, Infantrymen roar up to the front lines in huge Army trucks. Complete divisions, with guns, cannon and ammunition speed over roads. As always, the American Doughboy is trained to take care of himself on foot and lick the enemy in hand-to-hand combat.

AROUND THE WORLD—The U. S. Army has designed equipment and training for every known kind of climate and geography on earth. Our Infantryman is the best equipped in this war. For the snows of the Arctic or the heat of the Tropics, he has the clothes, equipment and training he needs to fight hard and win.

Lively Parley Is Continued By Methodists

Adjournment, Appointment Reading Discussion Carried On.

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Methodist pastors yesterday continued their lively discussion as to the time of adjournment and reading of pastoral appointments at the annual conference beginning Thursday afternoon. Some 75 ministers voted that the Rev. J. W. O. McKibben, of Decatur, be named to present to the conference body the request that appointments shall be read at 2:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

Discussion of the matter was inspired by the plan outlined by Bishop Moore that would have the reading of appointments at 12:30, 1 o'clock Sunday. Many pastors stated that such a procedure would tend to disrupt their morning services.

Bishop Moore expressed his personal concern for conference members who live some distance away from the conference seat, and who will desire to return to their homes by nightfall. He will acquiesce to the wishes of the conference body, he said. The conference body will express its wishes Thursday afternoon.

The Rev. Clarence A. Hall, of the Atlanta St. John church, offered a resolution relative to the day of the week conference shall assemble each year, and stipulating that the annual sessions be limited to three days between Sundays. A committee consisting of C. A. Hall, E. C. Few and R. B. Hayes was named to write the resolution to present the conference. Some 75 ministers signed the three-day resolution.

Advance work of the conference session will start Thursday morning, with meetings during the forenoon of more than 30 boards and commissions and examining committees. At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon a meeting of the Deacons and Orphans Aid Association members will be held in the Whitefield auditorium, when action will be taken toward liquidation of the association assets. The first night session of the conference, Thursday, will be featured by a sermon delivered by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, of Washington.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium is indicated. It is especially useful in the condition in which women are often troubled for more than 10 years have used it as an application for massaging the body during pregnancy. It helps keep the skin soft and pliable. It thus avoids unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin. For the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Mother's Friend
Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin lubricant. Try it tonight.

Louie D. Newton's: Baptist Conventionalities

Macon's spacious sidewalks and hotel lobbies revealed a substantial invasion of Baptists from every section of Georgia last night—here for the opening of the 121st annual session of the Georgia Baptist convention this morning at 10 o'clock in the First Baptist church. Restricted travel facilities, particularly gasoline and tires, have not kept the Baptists away from their convention. Dr. B. D. Ragdale, veteran secretary of the convention, expressed the opinion last night that the attendance will exceed the general estimates on the part of those who had been concerned about the 1942 meeting.

And the messengers are in fine mood. The news from Africa, the finding of Rickenbacker, and even the brilliant victory of Tech over Alabama is reflected in the hearty greetings of preachers and laymen alike from towns and villages throughout Georgia. The presence of so many soldiers in Macon quickens the tempo of patriotism about the hotels and on the sidewalks. The will to win this war runs even stronger and deeper in the hearts of these sturdy Georgians.

Dr. Lucius M. Polhill, pastor of the First Baptist church, Americus, will have for his text, when he stands in the historic pulpit of the First Baptist church of Macon this morning to deliver the convention sermon, the words of the Master, "According to your faith." (Matthew 9:29). The convention sermon is always a major feature in the Georgia Baptist convention. Baptists believe in a free church in a free state—the divinely ordained mission of preaching as one of the methods of bringing to pass the Kingdom of Heaven. They believe that God calls men to preach and that they must be free to declare the whole counsel of God in love.

This afternoon the session will be devoted to the report of the convention's executive committee, with Dr. James W. Merritt, executive secretary-treasurer of the convention, in charge. Dr. Frederick S. Porter, Columbus, is president of the executive committee. Dr. Merritt's report will reflect substantial increases in gifts to all purposes fostered by the convention. His report will deal with gifts to the co-operative program, by which the current work of missions, education and benevolence is supported; and the Baptist Hundred Thousand Club, the plan by which the debts of the south-wide agencies is being retired. Southern Baptist expect to be out of debt by the end of 1943.

The report on Christian education will be read later in the afternoon session today by Dr. T. R. Harvill, Athens. This report deals with the five educational institutions supported by Georgia Baptists—Mercer University, Bessie Tift College, Shorter College, Norman Junior College, and Brewster-Parker Junior College. A movement to add $100,000 immediately to the endowment of Bessie Tift College will be discussed under this report.

The report on theological institutions will be the closing feature of the Tuesday afternoon session. Discussion of the work of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., the Southern Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, and the Baptist

Commissioners Authorize Road Machinery Sale

Group Is Appointed To Draw Up Contracts With Firm.

Fulton county commissioners, at a special meeting yesterday, authorized a committee to negotiate the sale of part of the county's heavy road machinery to the MacDougall Construction Company at the request of the WPB.

The MacDougall company, an Atlanta firm, now is engaged on the Bell bomber plant and on several other defense projects. The county previously had offered its equipment to the WPB.

The commissioners appointed a committee consisting of Chairman Troy Chastain, Superintendent of Works A. A. Clarke and County Attorney Ralph Pharr to draw up a contract with the construction company.

Prices, according to WPB standards, range from 55 per cent of the cost for used machinery to 85 per cent for reconditioned equipment. It was estimated the sale would net the county more than $75,000. The proposed sale has been approved by Forrest Nelson, chairman of the machinery division of the regional WPB office.

Willkie Criticizes Churchill Statement

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie sharply criticized tonight Prime Minister Winston Churchill's recent "we mean to hold our own" declaration regarding the British empire and asserted it had shocked the world.

Urging the United Nations to develop now a plan to make the materials of economic self-development available to all the world after the war, Willkie declared in a speech prepared for the New York Herald Tribune forum:

"This cannot be accomplished by mere declarations of our leaders, as in an Atlantic Charter, particularly when one of the two principals to that instrument has in the last few days seemingly defended the old imperialistic order and declared to a shocked world: 'We mean to hold our own.'"

(On November 10, Churchill said in an address to the lord mayor's dinner: "Let me, however, make this clear, in case there should be any mistake about it in any quarter: We mean to hold our own. I have not become the king's first minister in order to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire.")

Willkie said that unless the people of the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China and all the other United Nations agreed today on their purposes, the idealistic expressions of hope as embodied in the Atlantic Charter "will live merely to mock us," as did President Woodrow Wilson's fourteen points in the first World War.

"The four freedoms will not be accomplished by the declarations of those momentarily in power," said the 1940 Republican presidential nominee. "They will become real only if the people of the world force them into actuality. And political internationalism will not accomplish them. Real freedom must rest on economic internationalism."

Willkie said that those who sneer when it is suggested that freedom and self-government could be brought to all men, feel that areas such as the Malayan peninsula or islands of the southeast Pacific "must be ruled perpetually by some nation's colonial imperialism."

"Our most immediate common need is of course a united military plan arrived at by a board of strategy representative not alone of the United States and Great Britain but representing likewise our other Allies," he continued. "Even such obviously essential cooperation has not yet been brought about."

Weakness Seen In 'Balkanizing'

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Sir Gerald Campbell, special assistant to British Ambassador Lord Halifax, declared today that Britain was not fighting for her empire alone, but asserted, nevertheless, that if the empire was "Balkanized" the structure of peace would be weakened.

"If the British empire were Balkanized," Sir Gerald told a Town Hall lecture audience, "one of the two main props of the temple of peace would be weakened. The two main props are the United States and Britain."

Thus, he answered those who have argued that Britain should not retain her imperial territories at the close of the war.

The "props must be repaired," Sir Gerald said, "as time and changes require."

ROYAL CROWN COLA

Had a date with Bill at noon. He'd been "downstairs" all morning, blasting, smashing and loading coal. Sweaty, back-breaking work. Vital to the war. Vital to millions of families this winter. That's why I was glad to be on hand to give him a "quick-up."

So it goes...round the clock. More than a million and a half times each hour, Americans reach for soft drinks. Americans who are working, fighting, going all-out to win the war.

That means 24-hour duty for me. Any minute...every minute I'm ready to bring them a lift and a fresh start. Ready to bring them the same quality they've known for years as best by

Up before dawn to meet Betty. She'd been running a precision drill since midnight. Neck bent! Eyes front! Attention fixed on tiny bits of metal. But 3 A. M. is recess time in her war plant. And I turned it into a pleasant bit of relaxation that made her keen for the job again.

Saw Hank about 5:30. He was just back in camp from an afternoon on the rifle range. Squinting through a gunsight. Holding a lively, bucking Garand rifle on the target again and again. But at the camp canteen my frosty lift scored the bull's-eye with Hank.

Here's Boxscore Of U. S., Japanese Naval Losses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

With announcement by the Navy last night that 23 more Japanese ships had been sunk in a rout of the enemy's fleet in the Solomons, Associated Press records showed today that at least 365 Japanese vessels in all categories have been blasted to the bottom of the Pacific in 11 months of war.

The total sinkings approximated one and a half million tons. Based on official announcements by the Navy and Allied headquarters in battle zones throughout the far eastern areas, the following compilation presents an over-all picture of comparable American-Japanese Pacific losses since Pearl Harbor:

	Japanese	American
Battleships	2	1
Aircraft Carriers	2	4
Cruisers	29	6
Destroyers	46	22
Submarines	28	5
Transport	86	5
Supply ships	13	0
Merchantmen	108	11
Sub-chasers or torpedo boats	1	7
Minesweepers or minelayers	10	7
Gunboats	7	5
Patrol boats	5	1
Oilers	4	3
Auxiliaries	7	3
Miscellaneous	13	4
Totals	365	84

Additional damage to enemy ships during the Solomons campaign, which may include some duplications of damage reported in Navy communiques, has been announced from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia.

Tabulation of MacArthur's announcements:

Aircraft Carriers—One probably damaged.

Submarine Tenders—One large tender believed destroyed, one small tender heavily damaged.

Battleships—One battleship or heavy cruiser damaged.

Cruisers—One probably sunk, seven damaged, three believed hit, one bombed with unobserved results.

Destroyers—Two probably sunk; three possibly hit.

Transport—Three damaged.

Gunboats—One sunk.

Cargo Ships—Four damaged.

Unclassified Warships—Eight hit.

Finding indications that the sorghum crop of Georgia, Alabama and Florida has been largely bought up for distilling purposes, Regional Administrator Oscar R. Strauss Jr. issued a warning that several kinds of federal law apply to this practice, each carrying large fines and prison terms.

Cane syrup, now coming in, faces the same situation, OPA officials reported after talking with

Havas Agency In U. S. Severs Vichy Ties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—

The Office of War Information said today the New York and Washington executives and personnel of Agence Havas, the French news agency, have severed all ties with "German-dominated France."

"They have pledged themselves to the service of the free and independent French in North Africa and elsewhere," OWI announced.

OWI, under a contractual arrangement, will assist the "free and independent Havas agency" in providing news to the "liberated French people in North Africa."

This, OWI said, was in line with its policy of helping to disseminate news abroad through all existing channels.

large commercial buyers who reported no syrup available.

"There is indubitable evidence in our hands," Strauss said, "that the crop has gone largely into bootlegging channels for distillation purposes."

On top of that, he said, these same interests are offering already a premium over any ceiling price the OPA will set for cane syrup.

One producer, the OPA reported, told a commercial buyer the other day he had sold his entire production to "a man that came by in a truck and paid me 75 cents a gallon for it. No ceiling price has yet been fixed, but last year the same syrup sold for 40 and 42 cents."

But wherever it's going, there's none to be bought, say the commercial buyers. Syrup experts say the normal practice is for the farmer to grow, press and boil his syrup in barrel lots. Then it is assembled through small community stores and disposed of to packers and blenders whose cold storage facilities, among other considerations, make possible its all-year use.

Sorghum Price. "For some time the OPA has been at work fixing new ceiling prices for these products," Strauss said, "but at the moment the important consideration is their being safeguarded for normal consumers. That is the immediate reason for this statement."

The sorghum crop for the affected region was estimated at 3,232,000 gallons and the cane syrup crop of 7,534,000 gallons. Existing ceiling prices are based on the highest paid last March but new tops are being computed. Meanwhile, OPA agents on the ground declare distillers and their agents are ignoring all regulations and buying every gallon available.

MACLEISH ADMITTED. WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Archibald MacLeish, librarian of congress, was admitted to practice today before the supreme court. He was presented by Attorney General Biddle.

Council Okays Bill To Permit Rubbish Fires

Public Drunkenness Also Commands Attention of City Body.

Disposal of yard rubbish, drunkenness in public places, milk inspections and administration of city finances commanded the attention of the city council yesterday.

If Mayor Hartsfield approves an ordinance passed yesterday, it will be lawful for Atlanta citizens to burn yard rubbish on their own premises. Collection of such refuse was discontinued October 5 to comply with an order of the federal government to reduce tire consumption on city-operated trucks. Council passed the measure by unanimous vote.

A proposal to empower police to invade any public place or business to arrest for drunkenness without a warrant, was sent back to city council's police committee for further study. Under present ordinances police may arrest for drunkenness on the streets, but may not enter business places unless summoned or unless there is disorder.

Out-of-state milk producers must pay the cost of city inspection up to $250 if they sell milk in Atlanta, under provisions of an ordinance sent to the mayor for his signature. Councilman James E. Jackson, vice chairman of council's health and sanitation committee, explained that such inspections are mandatory if the quality of milk sold on the Atlanta street is to be maintained. He said several out-of-state producers ship products into Atlanta and that there is now

Mayor Hartsfield, Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, finance committee chairman, and B. Graham West, city comptroller, will handle all city finances after December 1 under a resolution passed yesterday by city council. The action is customary in order to keep department operating smoothly during the last days of the year.

Troy Stone, member of the Carnegie Library board, was re-elected for a new four-year term.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Announced casualties of the armed forces now total 48,956.

Jersey Fights Freight Rate Parity Attempt

$8,000 Authorized for Legal Representation To Save Industries.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Fighting to prevent loss of some New Jersey industries, the state house commission today authorized the expenditure of $8,000 for legal representation in a railroad rate case now being heard at Columbus, Ohio, by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The case, which Assistant Attorney General Robert Peacock said might affect important industries throughout New Jersey, involves the efforts of several southern states and the Tennessee Valley Authority to secure parity with northern states on railroad freight rates.

The southern states had made "direct attacks" on important industries in New Jersey, Peacock said, including pottery in Trenton, bag manufacturing in Woodbury, storage battery and electrical equipment manufacturing in Newark, soap making in Camden and the manufacture of perfumes and soaps in Jersey City.

He told the state house commission, a state spending body, that the attacks, if successful, might lead to the loss of some or all of those industries to the state.

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 17, 1942.

"O God, Our Help in Ages Past"

There is one tower left standing of the grand old cathedral at Coventry. The Germans, in their blind hate, have smashed all else by bombs.

Last Sunday, for the first time since Dunkirk, the church bells of England rang out. It was in celebration of the victories in North Africa.

From that lone tower of Coventry cathedral the old bells beat out the tune of that grand old hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

Sometimes, as this war of the free peoples of earth against the Axis forces of evil moves inexorably along its way, it seems as though the sober, solemn chant of the ancient church bells echoes all across the oceans, all around the earth, calling again to us all to hold firm the faith, to lift high the banner of the God Who has been our help through all the years.

They silenced the church bells of England after Dunkirk, to use them as warning should the German invasion, so long imminent, have come. Now, that danger is almost past. Today it is the United Nations, with Britain and America in the forefront, who threaten invasion of Europe and Germany.

So, for one Sunday, the church bells lift their majestic tongues in praise to Him Who gives all the victories.

The church bells of England! What heritage of courage and of faith they recall. The bells that sound, each Sabbath day, the articulation of a nation's voice. They rang in the days of Elizabeth, they signaled the defeat of the Spanish Armada. They rang for Nelson after Trafalgar and they rang for many other heroes of the empire.

They, ring, too, in times of peace, each Sunday morn, carrying their call to worship over the quiet countryside and down the streets of teeming cities alike. They are, in peace or war, the music of the soul of a great people.

Today, as war's sorrow and war's discouragements and war's victories lie still ahead, the bells of England sound.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home!

Georgia 4-H Clubs Set Example

The 95,000 members of 4-H clubs in Georgia have set records in war effort which should serve as examples for all of us.

By sales of $300,000 in War Bonds and stamps, added to the $200,000 worth they have themselves purchased, these Georgia young people stand first in this activity of all the states.

Furthermore, Georgia 4-H clubs rank second, nationally, in the collection of scrap rubber and stand in third place among all the states for the collection of scrap metals.

Total 4-H collections of scrap rubber in the state are 2,329,942 pounds, while for the first 10 months of this year they have collected more than 10,000,000 pounds of scrap metal.

These farm boys and girls have, for years, constituted the cream among Georgia youth organizations. They hold, in their membership, bright promise for the future of the state and nation for, from their ranks, are emerging those citizens of the future who can most wisely lead.

In their war contribution they have made great achievement and, if only of us, youth and adults alike, will but emulate the 4-H-ers, Georgia will take her rightful place in the forefront of the states in battle array.

Get Ready for the Tax Man

Many good people are in for a hangover when the tax gatherer wakes them up on the fifteenth day of March, 1943. Over 50 per cent of those interviewed in a Gallup Poll stated either they didn't know whether they had to pay any tax at all or didn't know how much they would have to pay.

In answer to the question "Have you started saving money for the purpose of paying your income tax?" 75 per cent of those questioned stated they were not saving anything. In the lower income bracket, embracing the $15-per-week earners and upward, the non-savers for tax purposes came to 85 per cent.

If this state of apathy existed among low-income earners only, who have never paid income tax before or paid very little, it would not be so astonishing and alarming; but even in the upper bracket, where taxpayers have been hit heavily year in and year out, 53 per cent stated they were not saving anything. In one instance, locally, a big earner in 1941 was heard to remark he didn't have the funds to meet the final installment of $26,000—that he would have to borrow and repay the loan out of 1943 income. To all intents and purposes he is two years in arrears in providing for his income tax payments.

Where will the small and medium earners acquire the funds to pay 1942 taxes unless they save up the money systematically? It is the duty of every earner to take notice of this situation. He should ascertain or calculate as near as practicable the amount due against his 1942 earnings and prepare to meet the bill, or a good portion of it, when it is presented on March 15, 1943.

The income tax is presumed to come out of the income which is being taxed—in this case 1942 earnings. Get ready for the tax man right now and save a headache later.

A New President

One more story of success, typical of this nation, comes to attention with the election of Champion McDowell Davis as president of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company. President Davis succeeds George B. Elliott, who retired at his own request and became chairman of the executive committee of the road. Mr. Elliott had been president since 1928.

President Davis began his railroad career nearly 50 years ago when, on March 1, 1893, he became messenger in the freight station of the Wilmington & Weldon railroad. Including his predecessors, he has been in the service of the A. C. L. ever since, with the exception of a period in 1898 when he volunteered for Army service during the Spanish-American War, and again during the first World War when he served on the staff of the United States Railroad Administration as member, Southern Freight Traffic Committee. This was during the period when the federal government took control of all railroads.

Mr. Davis is well known in Atlanta, having lived here from 1918 to 1920 during his federal service. In addition to his position with the A. C. L. he is an officer or director of many related companies, including several with headquarters at Augusta.

It is a typical American story, from messenger to president. A success story in American business and in American life. It is a sample of the way of life we are today fighting to preserve.

Steel Record

Coincidental with announcement that Atlanta school children collected nearly three million pounds of scrap in the newspaper scrap metal campaign, come interesting figures dealing with steel output last month, released by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

The figures show American steel mills broke all production records in October. This is an outstanding record and something definite to cheer every individual who contributed to the success of the scrap drive. Specifically, the nation's steel mills turned out more tonnage in October than the estimated annual capacity of all steel mills in Japan. Is not that in itself something of which to be proud?

Further, this output of more than seven and a half million tons of ingots and castings was seven per cent higher than the September total, and exceeded by nearly 400,000 tons the total in October of last year.

Georgia Editors Say: 20 PER CENT MORE WORKERS

(From The Tifton Gazette.)
A simple solution for the much-talked-of man-power shortage would be the inauguration of a 48-hour week in war industries, making 20 per cent more workers available for war jobs. This country, with the greatest job of any of the countries at war—that of supplying our own huge armed forces and helping to supply our Allies—is working the shortest hours per week of any of the nations. If the farmers of the nation went on an eight-hour day, the training camps would have to be half-emptied to get men to produce the crops that we need.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

MUSSOLINI ON SPOT WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—No sadder or more laughable figure in the world is presented today than the "tattered jackal" of Rome, as Prime Minister Churchill has so picturesquely described Benito Mussolini, blustering warlord of the Italian nation.

Two months ago the Italian dictator delivered a speech in which he openly scoffed at the "second-front dream" of the Allied Nations. Rommel had the British army on the run in Egypt and the Duke was making plans for a grand entry into Cairo. The stage was all set for him to go there personally as the head of a triumphal procession of the Axis.

From these anticipated heights the fortunes of war have changed overnight to toss him in the rubbish heap of despair.

The British rout of Rommel's forces in the Nile country and American occupation of French North Africa have left the Italian nation bordering on complete demoralization. By virtue of those sudden developments, the specter of war's bloody realities has been lifted above the head of Mussolini and his peace-loving people.

Heretofore the Italians have had a fairly easy time of the war. Hereafter they will bear the brunt of a mighty Allied attack. Except for the British in the Mediterranean, they have not seen much of the actual fighting. They rushed into the war only after France was mortally stricken, and then for the purpose of making territorial claims on French colonial possessions. Mussolini's ambitions for building an Italian empire dictated all of this against the will of the people, who have always hated the Germans.

BOMBING TO COME Up to now Italian cities, with a few exceptions, have been free of the intense bombing operations the British have conducted since gaining mastery of the air. Heretofore the best targets for Allied airmen. From Sicily, off the toe of Italy, to French Tunisia, on the coast of North Africa, it is only some 80 miles—or only 16 minutes bomber flight. Rome and Naples are only some 325 miles away, about an hour's bomber time. Taranto, the great Italian naval base under the heel of the Italian boot, is only 400 miles distant.

Thus, overnight the Italians have been thrust into the front line of the new Mediterranean battle area. To escape annihilation by Allied bombers, the Italian fleet, or what is left of it, will probably have to flee up the Adriatic to Trieste, where it will be neutralized as an instrument of war.

As soon as we clear the North African area, as we surely will, it seems now, we will give the Italians a pounding such as the blustering Mussolini never conceived of in his wildest dreams. Italy promises to be the spearhead of the new attack. We propose to blast them to bits until they throw down their arms. They now constitute the most vulnerable target in Europe.

RESULT OF TREACHERY All of this because the "jackal" Mussolini, as Mr. Churchill calls him, chose to pounce upon the back of stricken France when he thought the fall of Paris meant the end of the war and would result in easy territorial pickings for his nation.

When the inevitable Allied blow is finally struck, retributive justice will fall with a heavy hand on the man who, next to Hitler, is more responsible for the present evils that have beset the world. It was Mussolini who first tore to shreds the framework of the League of Nations by launching an unprovoked attack on the helpless and half-civilized nation of Ethiopia. Later he sent his legions against the little countries of Albania and Greece, plunging those two peaceful nations into a war of ruin.

ITALIAN ARMS SHAMED Out of it all Italy has gained no territory and little glory. She subdued the Ethiopians only after a bitter struggle. The Greeks battered them all over southern Europe until Hitler finally came to the Duce's rescue. Italian occupation troops in Yugoslavia and Greece have been humiliated by the Nazis, and slain by the thousands by native guerrilla fighters.

Now the big guns of the Allies are pointed in her direction from across the narrow waters of the Mediterranean. It is no wonder that the Italian people have reached a stage of demoralization bordering on panic. The tip-off came in the remarks of a Fascist commentator broadcasting from Rome the other night. He frankly admitted that the war's have given Italy a "black horizon." Mussolini is reported from neutral sources to be in a jittery frenzy.

No one realizes better than he, perhaps, that at 59 he at last has reached the end of his tether. The curtain is about to fall on the 20-odd years of his clowning dictatorship. It is every reason to believe that the Italian people would have thrown him out long since but for the reported presence in his country of some 200,000 or more German troops and Gestapo agents. Thousands more will undoubtedly now be sent into the country to bolster its defenses against the anticipated Allied attack.

To all intents and purposes, Italy, henceforth, will be bound as tightly to the Nazi yoke as beaten France. Hitler dares not trust them to their own resources.

BETRAYED PEOPLE The pity of it all is that the Italian people, a nation of peace-loving people, left to them, they would have had none of the war, especially on Hitler's side. All of their present woes may be attributed to the once blustering but now "tattered jackal."

Now it is the rule not to publish unsigned letters. But, as we all know, every rule has its exceptions. So, I'll take a chance and tell you the gist of the letter this morning. If it was written by someone trying to get the nurses at that hospital in trouble, I can't help it. Can only blame whoever it was who didn't sign it.

To get to the point, the writer of the two pages, typewritten and single-spaced, has an idea the general public doesn't appreciate the Army Nurse Corps as it should.

Why? Because of what she seems to think is a lack of adequate publicity to the Corps by the newspapers. Yes, that's what is written in the letter. Believe it or not.

Writer seems to be, though she denies it, somewhat jealous of the WAACS and the WAVES. She writes:

"Why are the nurses never mentioned to the public by the press? Oh, yes, when the nurses came back from Bataan there were various complimentary articles written, but could any of them compare with the publicity given the formation of the WAACS or the WAVES? Don't misunderstand this desire for recognition as one for publicity?"

Huh, huh.

My Gosh! Lieutenant!

All of the persons on earth, Army nurses, it is my impression, have least call to complain of lack of recognition. Or, of publicity, for that matter, despite the lady's disclaimer.

Why, we've been publishing stories and writing songs and printing pictures of Army nurses ever since Florence Nightingale started it all. The Army nurses are a somewhat romanticized feature of American life in wartime that everyone is constantly conscious of. They are, as a class, actually in the top rank of national heroines and everybody knows it.

They couldn't be given more recognition, under any circumstances. As for the comparable publicity with the WAACS and the WAVES, I really haven't measured the amount of space devoted to any of them, but it is probable these two new organizations have received more printed stuff during recent months. For the simple reason they are new.

Anything new, with the amount of public interest there is involved in the fighting forces, even though non-combatant, has a lot of news value. And the public wants to know a lot about these new organizations. And it is the job of a newspaper to supply information when the public wants it, if it can.

But the Army Nurse Corps! Shucks, everyone knows they are just swell, doing a grand job and the ultimate tops. The public knows that and there would be no point in reiterating it.

I just can't agree with the writer of the letter. She writes: "Is it then so strange for this large and evergrowing group engaged in one of the most noble of all professions to wonder, with a slight resentment, at the utter and complete indifference apparent on all sides?"

It is that line about "complete indifference" with which I don't agree. Why, gals, we all love you, everyone of you. Don't you know that? A guy doesn't try to go around proclaiming his love for a gal to whom he's been devoted for years and years and years. He may enjoy looking at a picture of you, but he won't tell you that he belongs to the girl in white who is always on the job, who takes care of him when sickness or injury is his lot.

They're My Friends. I have I don't know how many friends in the Army Nurse Corps. And do you think there are many of us who haven't?

There's the blonde who took care of me this summer, for three weeks. She's with the Emory Unit now, in Louisiana.

There's the girl who nursed me the previous summer, the one I christened "Mehitabel," and who called me "Ichabod." She's in the Army Nurse Corps, too. I've even received letters and written in return.

And there must be a dozen others I remember, now in the Corps.

Why, my dear "2nd Lieutenant," the Army Nurse Corps is so close to our hearts, has been for so long, we don't have to proclaim our de-

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

A Young Playwright NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—By the kindness of my father, Lyle Wilson, I am able to publish a work by Miss Sally Wilson, of Washington, a young playwright who certainly makes a bum of that William Saroyan that they talk about so much.

Miss Wilson is 10 years old, is a female gangster in her spare time and runs with Miss Boops Spatz, also 10, who is the daughter of Major General Carl Spatz, the commander of the American air forces in Europe. I had heard that they once broke the leg of a guest in the Wilson home but Mrs. Wilson can't recall any such incident although, she added, "I wouldn't put it past them."

"I think," she said, "you mean the time Sally kicked her teacher for keeping her after school. But she didn't break her leg. She did bite her dog, Sarah, though, her little Scottie. It was a fight, I remember. Sarah ate something off Sally's plate so Sally ate a dog biscuit out of Sarah's bowl and Sarah bit her and the fight was on."

Thousands in Washington remember Sarah, she had a 50 per cent interest in one of the bitterest feuds in the history of the capitol. It started when William H. Hasset, one of President Roosevelt's confidential secretaries and an old family friend of the Wilsons, sat beside Sarah on the couch for a whole evening and, as he was about to leave, remarked that she was a very quiet, well-behaved little dog, but then, drawing on his new overcoat in which Sarah had smuggled during the visit, discovered the whole back chewed out of it. Mr. Hasset hated her until she died last year and Sarah would snarl and snap at him and him alone of all the Wilson's callers. She died of gout after years of overeating at the garbage cans of the better embassies.

Mr. Wilson says he is positive that Miss Sally has not been influenced by the works of William Saroyan, never having read him or even heard of him.

Sound of A Drunk In the play, which has no title, the word, or rather the sound "huk" recurs and Mr. Wilson contends that this is good realism. He says it is considerably more like the sound issued by drunken persons than the conventional "hic." He may be right.

The play follows Stepmother—I'm tired of living here. I've always wanted to be an actress.

Father—You certainly don't care for the children. Think of what they'll go through grandmother is always getting drunk.

Mother—If the children can't get along by their self it's too bad. I can't help it if grandmother gets drunk.

(Children enter.) Joe—Guess what I don't have any homework.

Father—Good do you have any homework.

Clover—A little bit. Dick—A little bit my foot. (Grandmother enters.)

Grandmother—I've huk squeaked the potatoes huk and peeled the huk lemons.

Mother—Oh dear. (Children laugh and mother leaves the room.)

Father—Granny wouldn't you like to get some water. (Grandmother—Later on. I'm going to the bar now.)

Joe—If you don't go to the bar more than twice a day I'll eat my hat.

Grandmother—You don't have none to eat huk.

Mother—Come on in and eat children.

Father—Grandmothers gone to the bar.

Mother—Thank goodness. Father—You know the children can't stay with her.

Mother—They are not my children where is there real mother. Father—It's a long story but I remember that big tank full of gas that started leaking in Gayton well we lived a block away and I was reading a paper and my wife was soiling on some close side I opened the door and a man said the gas tank was busted so I ran for the boys and my wife ran for Clover. It was so foggy outside I couldn't see.

Mother—The children must have been dead memories not to remember this.

Father—Well Dick was the only thing Jo was one and Clover was 3 months well the streets were crowded my wife slipped on a rock I don't know exactly how we got apart but I noticed she was missing many a times I looked for her but I never found her.

Mother—How queer.

Mr. Wilson, with Saroyan's success in mind, is thinking of quitting his job and living on Miss Sally's royalties.

These WAACS and WAVES are comparative upstarts.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today. From the news columns of Saturday, November 17, 1917:

"W. H. White Jr., president of the White Provision company, and one of the best known men in Atlanta, has been nominated for the presidency of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce."

November's Child Did you come with the rain falling silver and blue To border red autumn with glimmering lace? Did you come with the sparkle of frost-kissed dew That sprinkles pink morning to brighten its face?

Then you are November's child and bright youth Is tucked in the streams of your unruly hair. And ever your lover shall sing an untried love song And ever a dreamer's wide wealth you will share.

Your tiel-like nerves will crackle in haste When someone starts pruning the tree Your turbulent ponderings all go to As hours are drowned in lost effort to hate.

Why do you wish for the spring's laughing hours While bubbling from beauty your cloak Of flame-laden color, bejeweled with the rainment of autumn?

For which spring and summer have made the full payment? THOMAS ANDREW ROMEO.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

JEAN FRANCOIS DARLAN One of the strange facts of our occupation of French North Africa is that Admiral Darlan, but a few days ago Vichy's naval chief, now is in full command, working with the United States.

In France, aged, idealistic, Marshal Petain, is very angry with Darlan.

The Fighting French also are angry, and puzzled.

He was one of their chief hates until the day he joined hands with the Americans.

The story of Darlan may be pieced together beginning with the end of France.

Our ambassador to France was William Bullitt. He was an intense partisan of France. He did an excellent job, all things considered.

He summoned the French leaders, just before the surrender, and told them they had three great assets: The fleet, the African empire, which could be screened by the fleet, and the gold bar and bullion.

Bullitt began even then to have American ports, and English, offered to the fleet, even as they are now being offered.

Bullitt since has revealed that Lebrun, Reynaud and Daladier were in agreement. Petain and Daladier agreed—in part.

He long had hated the British and he would not agree to the fleet going to a British port.

The gold also was taken away by American vessels, sailing to Casablanca, where they now are fighting, in late May of 1940.

All the while, as France failed, Tony Biddle, subbing for Bullitt, kept reminding the French of their pledge not to let the French fleet fall into German hands. President Roosevelt had suggested the fleet be placed in the Mediterranean, dispersed at Alexandria, Oran, and Toulon.

Laval, the cunning, began to set up a government which would work with Germany.

Darlan's position was then, as now, somewhat mysterious.

DARLAN FOR DARLAN From all the evidence at hand, since the fall of France, it is obvious that two factors ruled Darlan.

One—He hated England and always had.

Two—He had a great pride in the fleet which he had created and built to be the second strongest in Europe.

The English, with the Free French in charge, attacked the French fleet at Mers-el-Kebir (Oran) in July. After this Darlan's hatred of England amounted to a mental condition.

Also the French fleet was being diminished insofar as French control was concerned. That portion of it at Alexandria had consented to internment. Three of the four battleships were out of commission, and the Jean Bart (damaged in our attack at Casablanca) was unfinished. The Strasbourg and the Dunkerque had been damaged at Oran, and a small-boat raid at Dakar had damaged the Richelieu. They were all capable of being refitted. The one aircraft carrier, the Bearn, was in, at Martinique and has consented to be refitted. We are supposed to be keeping watch on it. There remained four heavy and 10 light cruisers, 25 large and 28 small destroyers, and 50 submarines.

Darlan began to guard them jealously and to fear the British.

He also began to speak out, to Petain, doubting America's strength and her good will toward France. He saw too much alliance with England to suit him.

When the Red Cross food came to France Darlan prohibited the mention of its source, fearing demonstrations. Reports have it that the French people saw the sacks

Dudley Glass

Just a few years ago we were sympathizing with the suffering populace of Germany, who couldn't get a bite to eat without a ration card—anything to eat was on sale. We wept also for the British, who were enduring intense suffering by rationing.

Now we have it—in a mild form. It may grow more stringent. We're rationed on sugar and gasoline and tires. Meat is not so plentiful. We can't buy a typewriter. Coffee is scarce and will be rationed. Gracious, goodness, Miss Agnes, we are in a fearful plight—and they call this a free country.

Yet I have observed no emaciated children, searching the garbage cans for bones. I have heard of no Atlantans boiling down an old shoe to obtain a tiny drop of nutriment.

And, I am happy to say, I have heard no bitter complaints.

Kicks? Of course. The Bill of Rights guarantees every American citizen the right to kick and groan and howl and get it out of his system. I have raised a wolf howl because I couldn't find a cheap alarm clock. But I'm not going to wire my congressman about it.

Our rationing is bothersome. It is inconvenient. It is interfering with our daily habits. We don't like it.

But we're taking it and we're going to take more of it, whether we like it or not. And we're going to take it with a grin. We might as well.

My Steak?

And while I'm dwelling on the horrors of rationing as discovered in our super-service stores, I might mention that Greece is having a bit of trouble. The story is from Greece.

It is about a young soldier who had lived through months of war only to fall on his face in a street in Athens—"his eyes glassy and his whitened tongue sticking out of his mouth."

Good Samaritans of Athens rallied to the rescue. Quickly they collected thousands of drachmas to buy food for the starving man.

Money was plentiful. Everybody contributed. But of what use was money?

"They couldn't even find a glass of hot milk," said the narrator. "No food was to be had. It was not a suitable death for a soldier." Well, I am ordered to stop by the groceries and buy a two-inch thick steak, to be cooked out-of-

FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY

Tomorrow

TAKE PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA Tonight

DO YOU WANT to wake up tomorrow clear-headed—full of pep? Then don't let your stomach go sour during the night because you ate too much or stayed up too late smoking and drinking. Take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia at bedtime. It does more than merely neutralize excess acidity—it finishes the job by acting as a very gentle laxative. Helps you to wake up feeling fresh as a daisy. Read the directions on the milk of magnesia package and take as directed thereon or as prescribed by your physician.

ONE-TWO ACTION

1. NEUTRALIZES EXCESS STOMACH ACIDS—and does it almost quicker than it takes to tell. Relieves that uneasy feeling of discomfort almost immediately.

2. ACTS AS MILD LAXATIVE. Gentle—does not upset the system and leave you feeling "all wrong out." Take any time—does not act with embarrassing urgency.

Many physicians recommend it for young children.

They say the armed forces need the major share of the meat available. What right has a fighting soldier in the field to eat meat when my mouth is watering for a two-inch steak, with mushrooms?

Grand News!

Power of personality? I believe there was more heart-felt rejoicing among my acquaintances at the news that Rickenbacker had miraculously been rescued than over the successes in Africa.

That's natural. All America has known and loved Rickenbacker, the fearless. He has been better known than MacArthur. He was one of us. Great campaigns are too big for us to grasp.

This is the first line I've written about Eddie Rickenbacker. I tried several times after his plane had disappeared. But always, I found myself writing in the past tense. He "was." And I didn't like that, though I had small hope. So I tore up everything I'd written. And I'm glad I did. For Rickenbacker: "is," not "was."

Every day or two some friendly reader mails me a copy of a really good story—or poem—bearing on the war. He is sure I'd like to use it in the column. And he wonders why I don't.

The reason is that it's been floating around the newspapers for three months or more. He doesn't know that, because he has no opportunity to read any other newspaper than The Constitution—and what else could anyone desire—so he thinks he has run across something brand new. As a matter of fact, whatever that means, The Constitution may have printed it three months ago. And once is a plenty.

I trust this may explain to a number of contributors why their discoveries have not been immortalized in this column.

I must be developing exceptionally high resistance against yielding to that impulse. My old typewriter has just come back from the shop, all slicked and shined and looking like new—and I did not experiment with: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party," a test sentence which just fills a line and uses most of the letters. Instead, I headed right into this paragraph. Yes, the machine works fine, thank you.

Dr. Kallenbach Will Speak Tonight

Dr. Walter D. Kallenbach, noted blind evangelist and former trumpeter with Paul Whiteman's orchestra, will speak at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Baptist Tabernacle during the opening meeting of an 11-day revival.

Special feature of the revival services will be a program of music by the Salvation Army Training College cadets at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. Thursday night will be Sunday School Night, and music will be furnished by the Kirkwood Baptist church choir. Dr. Kallenbach will give a trumpet solo at each of the services, which will continue each night, except Saturday, through November 28.

Textile Workers Listed Essential to War Effort

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Selective Service headquarters revealed today that production of transportation equipment and production of military textiles had been added to the list of activities classified as essential to the support of the war effort.

The classification extended to these two activities, like that given 37 other activities previously, gives workers within them a stronger claim to occupational deferment, and is designed to guide draft boards in determining deferment questions.

It runs like this: In the Tribune's section, "The Voice of the People," appeared a letter from the vice president of an advertising firm which read in part: "We shall greatly appreciate it if you will advise us if you have been able to assist in opposing the rider (Lee amendment) to the draft bill." Whereupon, the Tribune gave answer in an editorial titled "Impudence," declaring:

"An advertising agent, presuming to handle the account of some whisky or beer maker, not only proffers advice on our editorial policies but asks us to report back whether it was followed. . . . We don't care for editorial advice from an advertising agent. This is no special virtue of the Tribune. It is common to every self-respecting American newspaper."

Forest Fires Raging in South Georgia Areas

Loss in Chatham County Set at More Than $100,000.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 16.—(AP)—A week-old forest fire, still raging through Chatham county woodlands, has destroyed timber estimated at more than $100,000 value on some 30,000 to 40,000 acres.

Elliott W. Reed, president of the Ogeechee Timber Protective Association, who made the estimates, declared no homes have been destroyed.

The fires in the Pooler, Port Wentworth and Monticello sections, are still burning, Reed said. Rangers of the association are working unceasingly to bring them under control.

Reed said a major handicap in fighting the blazes was lack of manpower. It was arranged for convicts to help in the combat work, he reported.

Echols Man Reported Held

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 16.—An Echols county white man is being held by the sheriff of Clinch county pending full investigation into a series of forest fires in Clinch and Echols counties recently, it is learned hereby Harley Langdale, president of the American Turpentine Farmers' Association Co-operative.

Langdale reported that several of the fires last week caused many thousands of dollars' damage, many fine standing trees giving way to the fire before it was controlled by the fire-fighting forces called out.

President Langdale said today that any prosecutions for firing timber lands will now be brought in the federal court on a charge of sabotage, under a recent ruling by the War Department.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

November 13, telling of the action of the Richmond county grand jury in declaring that the sale of whisky by the drink is legal in Georgia. The grand jury is reported as having reached this decision after a conference with the sheriff of the county. That, ladies and gentlemen, is one of the best laughs of this otherwise serious year of 1942. When this ridiculous announcement from Augusta was called to the attention of Andrew J. Tuten, special assistant attorney general assigned to the revenue department of Georgia, he said, of course, that the liquor law of the state prohibits such sales. He went on to specify the provisions of the law which prohibits packages being broken on the premises where they are sold. Prize sentence, it seems to me, in this story from Augusta is the following: "He (the sheriff) said it was his understanding the state law carried a provision to the effect that nothing in the act should conflict with rules set up by local authorities."

Third place, I would suggest, should go to the Kentucky Liquor Dealers' Association in calling to task the Courier-Journal for "leaning to the dry side." The Courier-Journal, generally regarded, I believe, as a fairly friendly paper toward the liquor interests, got so fed upon the bold attitude of the liquor crowd that it declared "It is perfectly obvious that nine out of 10 counties in the state will go dry when they are given a chance, unless the law and the administration are changed." Sixty-nine counties in Kentucky have already gone dry. The fact that the Kentucky dealers would try to brow-beat the Courier-Journal is just one other illustration of what we are up against in this country. The shameful effort of the advertising concern in Chicago, and the ridiculous affair in Richmond county are part and portion of the same general pattern.

48-Hour Labor Policy Favored By Sen. George

Georgian Writes Augustan Wages, Not Farm Prices, Inflation Cause

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Senator W. F. George said in a letter to L. S. Moody, secretary of the Augusta Chamber of Commerce, that the failure of the government to adopt a "straightforward" labor policy is "a serious indictment of our whole war program."

"Many months ago I urged the President to call the leaders of labor together and insist upon a 48-hour week with straight hourly time," the senator wrote. "The serious indictment of our whole war program is the failure of the government earlier to adopt a straightforward American labor program. I wish to see industrial workers get high wages, but wages have been allowed to advance without any effective control. Advancing of industrial wages and not the price of farm products is primarily responsible for such inflation as we have today."

Moody had written Senator George to report on the plight of farmers, unable to obtain sufficient labor. He said, "The real difficulty is the inability of the farm to compete with industrial enterprise and the government project for labor."

Moody received the senator's letter Saturday.

Judge Has Plenty Suits But No Robe

Federal Judge E. Marvin Woodward yesterday faced a judicial problem that he was at a loss to solve for an uncomfortable few minutes, but finally he decided that practicability should have precedence over tradition.

Scheduled to open federal division court at Rome yesterday morning, the jurist discovered that the impressive black robe of his office was not to be found among his effects. After pondering the matter, he decided he could hold court without it, and so clad in his regular business suit he ascended the bench.

A hurry call to Atlanta resulted in the location of his robe in his chambers here, and a special delivery, registered package went off on the morning mail.

Free 5 Seconds, Then Back to Jail

Raymond Durham was a free man yesterday for just about five seconds, upon his release from federal prison here. Then he went right back into the custody of law enforcement officers and this time it looks like he will be behind bars for a long time.

Durham yesterday completed a sentence for possessing and operating an unregistered distillery in Alabama and upon his release from federal custody, local officers took him in tow to hold him for return to Mississippi where he is wanted to finish serving a life sentence for murder.

Sentenced to life imprisonment in 1930, Durham said he served about 14 months and then went home. In 1938 he was convicted on the liquor violation and imprisoned here. It will be about 98 years before he can go home to Cherokee, Ala., where he has a wife and two children.

J. E. Mooney Dies; Rites To Be Held Today

Retired Railway Engineer Succumbs After 42 Years' Service.

J. E. Mooney, 69, veteran retired Southern Railway engineer, died yesterday at the residence, 846 Brookline street, S. W., after an extended illness.

Mooney retired on July 30, 1938, after 42 years and eight months of service with the Southern Railway. He began his railroad career in 1895 as a fireman and six years later was promoted to engineer.

During his long service with the company, Engineer Mooney had but one serious accident. In 1916, at Lula, Ga., a train backed from a sidetrack into the main line and Mooney's heavy engine plowed into the rear of the train. No one was killed.

Survivors include his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Irene Logan, Montgomery, Ala., and Mrs. Chester Gentle and Mrs. F. E. Brown, Atlanta; and a brother, Charles Mooney, of Tucker, Ga., also a railway engineer.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, at Spring Hill, with the Rev. R. B. Hays officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Pallbearers will be R. B. Elliott, G. J. Elliott, J. R. Cobble, C. R. Jackson, W. R. Pulliam and H. O. Denny. Members of Chapter 596, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, will form an honorary escort.

56	Temple
212	Fordham

Williamson calls Fordham no ordinary pushover. What, then, is an ordinary pushover? Here is Fordham's record for 1942:

FORDHAM
14	Purdue
14	Tennessee
0	North Carolina
23	West Virginia
7	St. Mary's
13	L. S. U.
6	Boston College
77	(Next Missouri)

Williamson puts too much emphasis on scores. Some of us are inclined to look upon schedules as all-important. Boston College has played a mediocre slate; Tech's has been exacting.

In the final analysis, Williamson has tripped over his slide rule or fumbled with his calculator or his own interpretation of the Einstein theory. By his own admission, "the rating indicates each team's proven strength in comparison with its scheduled opponents."

The man is all mixed up. Boston College beat Williamson's 30th team Saturday. Tech overpowered Alabama, still Williamson's eighth-ranking team in the country.

The Facts Let's take West Virginia. According to Williamson, West Virginia is 41st. Clemson is 89th. Wake Forest is 64th. He rates North Carolina Navy second among prep schools. Georgetown ranks 42d. Temple holds a 65th ranking. Fordham, as mentioned, ranks 30th.

Auburn, Tech's opening opponent, today rates 21st. Notre Dame is ninth. Chattanooga and Davidson are 98th and 119th, respectively. Navy is 23rd, Duke is 25th, Kentucky is 85th and Alabama, of course, is eighth.

Boston College has played no college team that ranks better than 30th. Tech has played two currently in the first 10.

A bit of recalculation might be in order. Williamson, by the dictates of his own system, is out of step.

Boston College's next opponent, Boston University, ranks 210th in the Williamson system. Tech's next foe, Florida, is 104th. It gets worse as it goes along.

Holy Cross, the final opponent for B. C., is 60th. Tech takes on Georgia, rating No. 1 in the nation.

Here is the utter absurdity of the whole situation. We have added up the rating of B. C.'s eight college opponents and Tech's 10, for the season, and Tech's rating ahead of B. C. is 4.92 to 6.01.

The Fair Thing While we're still on the subject of Georgia Tech, another word about Clint Castberry, the All-American freshman. There will be many pickers who'll be inclined to use "freshman" as an excuse to leave off one of the nation's very finest football players.

Suppose Castberry were called into the war effort after this season? It could happen. He might not have another chance to rate the honors.

Most of all, a player should be selected the year he does a great job. Castberry has sparked Tech in the big victories. Being a freshman makes it all the better.

In the line, a guard, Harvey Hardy, has played All-American ball every Saturday. They both should make it.

Georgia has Sinkwich and Poschner or Ruark.

Bulldogs, B. C., Tech Williamson's Top Teams

Tulsa Fourth, Michigan 5th, Wisconsin 6th

Twice Beaten Tide Ranks 8th, Vols 11th, Maroons 12th, Auburn 21st.

By PAUL D. WILLIAMSON. Georgia's Bulldogs slapped out a 40-to-0 victory over a hard-fighting Chattanooga team last week, clamping down hard on their No. 1 place in the Williamson football ratings, while Boston College shoved under Fordham to replace Georgia Tech in No. 2 place.

Right in line with the Williamson System predictions, Boston lapped Fordham 56 to 6. Meanwhile, also as predicted, Georgia Tech put over a 7-0 win against Alabama, probably turning in the best performance in the country but still slipping to third place in the rating calculations.

Here's the way this turnover in the No. 2 and No. 3 positions works out: Beating a strong team like Alabama by even one touchdown is a good day's work for the Rambling Wrecks. However, it isn't exactly in the class with Boston College's stellar performance in smacking down no ordinary pushover like Fordham by the very impressive margin of 50 points.

TULSA IS FOURTH. Others among the first 10 teams, in order of their standings in the Williamson System, and their performances last week were: Tulsa, victory over Baylor 24 to 0; Michigan, winner against Notre Dame 32 to 20; Wisconsin, who knocked off Northwestern 20 to 19; Ohio State, winner over Illinois 44 to 20; Alabama, loser to Georgia Tech; Notre Dame, and 10th, Marquette, conqueror of Great Lakes Naval Station 13 to 7.

The system mopped up with its prediction story last week. It correctly picked Michigan over Notre Dame. It was correct on its analysis of two of the "upstarts" of the season—Fresno State and Tulsa.

On Armistice Day, Fresno went down before the strong San Francisco U. Dons by 33 to 13.

Coach Henry Frnka's Golden Hurricane of Tulsa, which blew itself up among the leaders by slapping over its two main Oklahoma opponents, the State University and Oklahoma A. & M., last week roared over another leading eleven, the Baylor Bears. Remember, the Bears have lost only to Texas in Southwest Conference play this season. The Tulsa proved their right to rank near the top by this victory, as predicted by the system.

PICKED 85.5 CORRECT. The system had a swell week on most of its picks, including, in addition to the above: Furman 6; South Carolina 0; Miami 12; Florida 0; Cornell 21; Dartmouth 19; Georgetown 27; North Carolina State 20; Holy Cross 13; Temple 0; Iowa State 20; Kansas 13; West Virginia 7; Kentucky 0; Harvard 7; Brown 0; Marquette over Great Lakes; West Texas 13; New Mexico 7; Yale 13; Princeton 6; Tufts 7; Massachusetts State 0; Wichita 20; Southwestern U. of Kansas 13; Southeastern (La.) 38; Memphis State 14; and Howard Payne 9, Abilene Christian 0.

The system last week on its predictions was 85.5 per cent correct. That is in line with its average of this season. The record for the week was 179 games reported, 24 upsets, and four upsetting ties. Of the upsets, 14 were in games where the teams were rated mighty close. In other words, they were toss-up games, in which anything could happen. Most of these were decided by a touchdown or less. Thus the statistical efficiency for the week was 92.8 per cent.

The big upsets of the week included: Amherst 12, Williams 6 (perhaps Amherst's Lord Jeff could down a big team like Princeton, as did Williams); Creighton 13, Texas Tech 6; DePaul 6, Washburn 3; and Texas Christian 13, Texas 7.

Southern Net Aces

In Flying School

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Two of the south's top-ranking tennis players have abandoned their requests for the duration to become fliers for Uncle Sam. Archie Henderson, of Chapel Hill, N. C., the south's No. 2 player, and Billy Gillespie, of Miami, Fla., and Atlanta No. 1, could count down a big team like Princeton, as did Williams; Creighton 13, Texas Tech 6; DePaul 6, Washburn 3; and Texas Christian 13, Texas 7.

CHARLES GREEN DIES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Charles Green, 58, of Laurel, Miss., lumber executive and amateur golf enthusiast, died Sunday after a long illness. Green attended Tulane University, and was captain of the football team before he was graduated in 1903.

Bainbridge Trash

Heap Yields Scrap

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Nov. 16.—(AP)—A long-unused municipal trash heap is providing a considerable amount of additional scrap for the nation's armament program. Uncovered by accident when the guard squadron of the Bainbridge Army airfield began to clean an area for use as a drill and athletic field, the ground has yielded 70 truck loads of old tires, copper tubing, rubber and lead from junked batteries, steel and copper wire and the inevitable tin cans.

HOME-GROWN POWERHOUSE—Jack Jordan, first-string guard in that stellar Georgia Tech line which played the famed Alabama foreword to a standstill Saturday, is an Atlanta boy. The 185-pound junior, like Comet Clint Castberry, the fabulous freshman who is making a serious bid for All-America honors, prepped at Boys' High here. Now again Jordan is clearing a path for Capering Clint to carry the mail.

Sinkwich May Surpass Ground Gaining Record

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 16.—Captain Frankie Sinkwich, who moved over to fullback last week against Chattanooga "for the good of the team," will probably surpass the world's ground-gaining record Saturday when the Bulldogs tackle Auburn's Plainsmen in the renewal of the old-time rivalry in the south.

Sinkwich needs 114 yards running and passing to beat the record, and there is little doubt in Georgia supporters' minds that he will do it. Then Frankie still has the Georgia record to beat.

Frankie, although playing at new position, piled up the most yardage of any game this season running with the ball against the Moccasins. He had 141 yards net, which is five more than he gained against Cincinnati. On the air, though, the fireball suffered a setback, getting only 55 yards. He completed seven out of 12 attempts, however, to boost his average in that respect.

Proof that Georgia isn't looking ahead to the tilt with Tech two weeks hence and thereby letting Auburn slip on them this trip is the order Coach Butts issued calling all his regulars out for drills today.

The Bulldogs have had to work on Monday in three weeks. Coach Butts said scouts had told him the Tigers are capable of beating Georgia if the Bulldogs aren't on their toes.

Our Auburn games are always that way and there isn't any reason for this to be different," he said.

Neither Coach Butts nor any of the players have forgotten what happened a year ago, when Sinkwich threw a 65-yard touchdown pass to Lamar Davis on the very last play of the game.

The Bulldogs suffered no injuries in the Chattanooga game but it still isn't definite whether Dick McPhee and Red Keuper, both injured, will be back in action Saturday. Jim Todd, another injured back, did not play in the Chattanooga game, but he will be able to go this week.

Whirly-Alsab Race Called Off Again

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—(AP) The Fairgrounds Special, $20,000 classic scheduled here December 12 when Alsab was expected to duel it out with Whirlaway, has been called off because of inability of Alsab, recently injured, to be here then.

Ben Chapman's Appeal Taken Under Adversement

An appeal by Ben Chapman, manager of the Richmond Colts, from a one-year suspension for striking a Piedmont League umpire during a playoff game last September, was taken under advisement today by the executive committee of the National Association of Baseball League.

Dr. E. M. Wilder, chairman of the executive committee, said Chapman and E. H. Moores, president of the Richmond club, appeared before the committee here, but that other witnesses would file evidence in written statements. These, he explained, would be considered by the committee before reaching a decision, probably next month.

Atlanta Hunter Forgets License But Bags First Deer of Day

The organized rifle deer hunt in the Chattahoochee National Forest began at sunup Monday morning several miles above Dahlonega, but J. A. Gore wasn't among those allowed inside the area. He had forgotten his hunting license, and had to tramp all the way back down the mountain to camp to retrieve his precious pass.

However, Gore, who lives at 2400 Westminister Way in Atlanta, bagged the first buck of the day. After losing about two hours' time going back and returning from camp at the foot of the mountain, Gore had his deer nailed up at 9:10 o'clock, approximately 40 minutes after he entered the area. The buck was a four-pointer, and weighed 165 pounds.

Maybe it pays to forget your license.

Coast Moves To Give Rose Bowl Bid Early

Bulldogs, Eagles, Tulsa Are Hinted as Favored Elvens.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—(AP) Faced with the dilemma of having its western representative possibly undetermined until December 12, the Coast Conference's Ross Bowl committee yesterday discussed means of obtaining earlier action in inviting an eastern rival to the New Year's Day post-season classic.

A number of recommendations were agreed upon, but Percy Loecey, of Oregon State College, committee chairman, said no information could be released until the recommendation had been approved by conference faculty athletic representatives.

Locey said the findings would be released probably next week. Speculation here centered on the probability the conference Rose Bowl committee had decided to ask authority to issue the invitation to the eastern team which will play the game. Heretofore, since the conference entered into an agreement with the original Tournament of Roses committee, the team selected to represent the conference in the Pasadena classic was permitted to invite its own opponent.

Because the Coast Conference championship sometimes has not been decided until the middle of December, outstanding available teams from the rest of the country have been lost through earlier commitments to the various other bowl games.

Sugar Bowl Not Planning On Full House

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—(AP) Chalk it up as pretty official that the 73,000 capacity Sugar Bowl will for the first time in its nine years not be a sellout this year, and the reason, of course, is the war.

A. N. Goldberg, former president of the Sugar Bowl group, today dropped a hint that made the fact semi-official at least when he said ticket sale was slow, and that he personally expected a crowd of around 50,000, which he thought would be as good or better percentage of capacity than rival bowls.

We think we are going to get the best matched teams in the nation, and have the No. 1 game," Goldberg said in an interview, "but speaking my own thoughts only, I don't think we can fill up our bowl. There are too many uncertainties confronting us."

Number one is the transportation problem. Since we ran our capacity up to its present limits we have drawn about 45,000 persons from New Orleans and the trade area up to 250 or 300 miles distant, and the remainder from a day's travel or more distant, some several days distant. We can be assured of some reduction in local attendance, and most of the outside attendance.

"We are in a better situation than other bowls on the transportation problem, I think. Certainly our general location and nearness to likely contenders is better. I think we have a better chance than ever to present the nation's top-notch game, and perhaps the largest crowd."

Ansley Will Hold Losers Pay Meet

Captains Shaefer and Dana will lead their teams into action over the Ansley Park course where the annual Losers-Pay Dinner tournament will be played between noon and December 5, when the dinner will be held. One-point Nassau play will be in effect.

Following are the pairings with the first-named player in each two-some being on Captain Shaefer's team:

Lawson Trounces Columbia, 48 to 20

Lawson General Hospital's powerful basketball team opened its season last night with a 48-to-20 victory over the Columbia College nine from Decatur at the Tucker gym.

In a preliminary game the Hertz girls whipped Chamblee, 22 to 19.

Dick Douthat led the Soldiers, scoring 29 of his team's points.

The lineups:

LAWSON (48): For. COLUMBIA (20): D. Phillips (3); Blackwell (2); F. Woodward; Boyd; McNeil (4); G. Hume (2); Smith; G. Hume (2); Humphries; Phillips (4); Substitutes—Lawson, Merrill (1); (1), Corwell (8); McClure, Reinert, Mills (1); Columbia, Smith (1).

BEAU JACK NEARS TITLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(INS)—Beau Jack, lesser known as Sidney Walker, thoroughly punctured Mike Jacobs' dreams of a lightweight elimination tournament, to find a successor of Sammy Angott, when he stopped Allie Stolz Friday night in Madison Square Garden.

With Angott out of the way, by reason of his thoroughly patriotic decision to go into a defense plant, Stolz and Beau Jack were the main and secondary men in the 135-pound division. Beau Jack settled that by swarming savagely all over Stolz to win every round except one. He opened a couple of bad cuts over Stolz's eye (Stolz said it was a butt) and won going away.

The former shoeshine boy of the August, Ga., National Golf Club, who got his break when 23 members of the club chipped in $2,000 to launch him on a formal fistic career, is the nearest thing to Henry Armstrong since that poetic slugger left these parts. Beau Jack learned to fight in battle royals at the August Club's smokers, and he still fights that way; throwing punches from every conceivable position and forever boring in, motivated by a sinister, feinting shuffle almost exactly like Armstrong's.

Beau Jack's end of the purse came to something like $16,000—out of which he had guaranteed Stolz $10,000. Of the remaining $6,000 he coughed up $2,000 to his handlers. Out of the residue, $4,000, he got $5, though a backer who had won money on him (Beau Jack was a 14 to 5 underdog) gave him $40 to buy a watch.

Krober Just Sits And Sits and Sits NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—(P)—Big Mike Krober played three years of football at Tulane without ever getting into the stadium in uniform. The former All-State schoolboy center at Beaver Dam, Wis., scrimmaged against Tulane's first string three years, but always spent his Saturdays in the press box as a "spotter."

Krober admittedly joined the Georgia Pre-Flight team to "play just once" in Tulane's big stadium.

Saturday, when the Pre-Flighters came here he sat the game out on the bench.

Red Sox Pitcher Joins U. S. Navy

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—(P)—Charlie Wagner, one of the Boston Red Sox leading pitchers, joined the United States Navy today as a second class seaman and was sworn in to begin duty December 1.

Wagner, who won 14 games and lost 11 last season, had his best year in 1941 when he won 12 games and lost eight. He has been with the Red Sox three years.

The hurler, 25, married his home town sweetheart, Evelyn Becker, of Reading, Pa., two weeks ago. He was known as the "dressed man" on the Boston team.

Trojans, Seahawks Battle at Warren

Georgia Power Trojans and the Seahawks, a pair of old rivals, will clash in the top game on the Walthour Girls' Basketball League program tonight at Warren Sports Arena.

The contest is scheduled for 9 o'clock. The second game will bring together Walco and Hertz Lorelei Ladies at 8 o'clock. The final contest will feature Southern Bell and Naval Base, newcomers to the loop, and is slated to get under way at 10 o'clock.

Thirteen Team Finish Season Still Unbeaten

Georgia Has Most Victories, 9; Tulsa Leads in Point Scoring, 354.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Less than two dozen teams among the nation's collegiate gridiron eleven remain unbeaten and untied, a survey disclosed today, and at least 13 have finished the season, while not one boasts an un-crossed line.

Georgia's southeastern powerhouse tops the list with a string of nine triumphs in which Frankie Sinkwich and his mates scored 320 points while holding opponents to 49.

The scoring leader, however, is Tulsa (Okla.) University, which has piled up 354 points in eight games, compared to only six for the opposition.

Idaho southern branch, only team that had not yielded a score a week ago, was knocked out of the unbeaten ranks by Colorado College on Armistice Day. Williams and Fresno State also suffered their first defeats last week.

The unbeaten, untied teams, with their season's records:

Tech Gridders Given Holiday

The entire Georgia Tech football team enjoyed a holiday yesterday as a reward to its victory over Alabama's Crimson Tide Saturday. Only among the freshman and Red Devil eleven was their any activity at the Flats.

The Yellow Jackets, battered and bruised following their tough contest, will return to work today for their game with Florida here Saturday but the boys who did most of the work against Bama won't scrimmage until Thursday, if then. It depends on their physical condition.

Tech figures to be in good shape for its two remaining games. Jim Luck, who punted once for his only play against Alabama, will be back as will Jack Helms, the big end. Matt Manning and Harvey Hardy took plenty of knocks in the game and are pretty badly bruised. They will be withheld from rough work this week.

GREAT BACKS

It is always a bad mistake to start mentioning fine backs, because you are sure to leave off several who belong, thereby causing great mental distress and indignation on the part of old grads and other collegiate supporters.

But for all that I can't recall a year that gave football a greater number of fine backs.

Just as a partial collection, we can mention Hirsch, Harder, Daley, Hillenbrand, Fekete, Farmer, Clait, Ashbaugh, Kuzma and White from the midwest—Holovak, Gornall, Mazur, Stiff and Filipowicz from the east—also Muha—Muha and Mazur have both been hurt—Sinkwich, Castleberry, Prokop, Craft, Jenkins, Black and Dark from the south—more than a few in the southwest—plus Steuber, of Missouri; McCordie, of Southern California; Dobbs, of Tulsa, and Evans, of Kansas.

And please remember this is only a part of the big parade. But there are enough names here to show how keen the competition has been all season.

Such backs as Sinkwich, Holovak, Castleberry and Prokop have been major factors in the high scoring season the three leaders have known.

But again in each case they have all had big, fast lines working up front.

1942 Material

Late last winter, after Pearl Harbor, there was a general belief that college football would be on a much lower grade.

It hasn't worked that way. While any number of stars are in the service, the great majority were given their chance to get one more year of college work before moving into much rougher action.

In addition to older men, a surprising number of freshmen have also more than made good, with Castleberry leading this crop.

Another feature has been the improvement of such teams as Illinois and Wisconsin, who both look tremendous forwards jumps. These two teams have had a lot to do with scrambling up the Big Nine race.

Tide Regs Given

Rest by Thomas

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 16.—(AP) Coach Frank Thomas, of Alabama, gave his first and second teams a holiday today while reserves and freshmen devoted most of the afternoon to practicing with Vanderbilt players.

Trainers said the entire squad was "pretty battered up" as a result of the Georgia Tech game, but all players who took part in the match are expected to be in shape for Vanderbilt at Birmingham next Saturday.

Mitchell Olenksi, first-string tackle, is still recovering from a knee and may miss his third straight game.

Pep Young Gets Post With Navy

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—(AP) Ralph S. (Pep) Young, former second baseman for the Detroit Tigers and Philadelphia Athletics, received a leave of absence as Temple University's baseball coach today to take a job with the Navy department for the duration.

Young will become associate inspector of engineering at a plant in Essington, Pa.

Roche Asks for Babe Zaharias As His Partner in Team Match

Dorv Roche has asked for and been given a tougher and stormier partner for his team wrestling adventures.

Last week Roche paired up with clever, but clean Ralph Garibaldi, and Garibaldi proved a bit too brittle and was injured, with the result that Dorv was left to carry on alone against Cowboy Luttrell and Angelo Cistoldi. The ex-coal miner gave the villains a real battle, but finally was overpowered.

Now he wants a second shot at the Cowboy and the Italian and he will get it Friday night, with Babe Zaharias, the burly Greek, helping him as his partner.

"I haven't got much use for Zaharias," explained Roche. "I know he is underhanded and breaks the rules. But all is fair in love and war. I want a partner who can take it and I believe the Greek will be a big help to me against Luttrell and Cistoldi. I can promise them the battle of their lives."

Last week's team match was one of the most exciting of the year, but Garibaldi missed fire on one of his flying tackles directed at Cistoldi, and was hurt. That left Roche to carry on alone.

There will be two other good matches on Friday's program.

Enjoy a glass of WINE with your friends

It's doubly needed this year... the quiet comfort that people find at home when friends drop in. Be ready next time friends come to your house. Set out crackers and cheese or simple sandwiches, together with small glasses of glowing amber California Sherry or Muscatel Wine. It's a custom you want to repeat, often. THE END OF THE TRAIL—Sergeant Everon P. Rutta finally found just the right thing to give his fiancée, with the help of Mrs. Everett Thomas, (left) one of the Civilian Defense workers who're helping service men with their Christmas shopping.

PLEASANT SHOPPING—With the aid of civilian defense workers, men in the armed service are finding it a pleasure to do their Christmas shopping. Here Sergeant J. Meigs, left, and Corporal John J. Oneignot are getting Mrs. R. B. Boswell, left and Mrs. Dan Plaster to wrap the bundles they have just purchased for the "one and only."

Russians Take Village, Slay 2,000 Germans

German battalion (500 men) was when the midnight communique said that another 1,500 Nazis had been killed trying to retake the village. The fighting has been going on there for two days.

Heavy Losses.

On the nearly-stalemated Stalingrad front the Russians said the Germans lost 1,500 men, two tanks, six guns, 17 trench mortars, 11 machineguns and other booty yesterday in attacks which "gained no success whatsoever."

In one sector of the city the communique said the Red Army springing to the counterattack "dislodged the enemy from a line he had occupied two days ago."

Situation Summed Up.
Other results announced at midnight were the downing of 19 Nazi planes in fighting on all fronts, the killing of several hundred more Germans at scattered points along the vast front, and the sinking of an 8,000-ton German transport-tanker in the Barents sea.

The situation as it has been summed up before issuance of the midnight bulletin was:

Soviet troops advanced slightly southeast of Nalchik killing 200 Germans on the northern side of the towering central Caucasus mountains. Northeast of Tuapse near the Black sea, they ambushed a German column behind the lines destroying 15 trucks and 40 Nazis.

In Stalingrad attacks by small enemy groups were reported thrown back and further gains registered northwest of the bitterly cold Volga city.

(The Germans said the Russian attack on the Volkhov front collapsed; that further blocks of houses were seized in Stalingrad; and that two encircled Soviet groups were annihilated in the Caucasus where counter-attacks were beaten off.)

For weeks, the Germans have been reporting Russian troop movements and concentrations in the vast snow-covered section between Moscow and Leningrad.

It was possible that the Volkhov action there might be a prelude to a new Russian winter offensive, now that the enemy has been

Women Set Up Booth To Help Soldiers Buy Christmas Gifts

By JANE NOLAND

In every Christmas shopping crowd you'll find one—the bewildered male, standing pathetically in the middle of the aisle, twisting words in his hand and wondering "What the heck do you get a woman for Christmas?"

To avoid this dire predicament, the average man will get his mother to buy his sister's present, his sister to buy his mother's, and one or the other to purchase a wife's or sweetheart's.

But comes wartime, this simple palming off of the purchasing is out, if a guy is in the Army and miles away from home. So to give a boost to the Christmas quandary, women of the civilian defense have set up a booth in the Service Men's Center on Courtland street to shop with or for soldiers, and wrap packages free afterwards.

First Customer.
Yesterday was the first day of the system, and the first customer was a blond paratrooper from Chicago, Sergeant Everon P. Rutta.

"It's my fiancée," he explained, and mumbled the usual thing about not knowing what women like.

Mrs. Everett Thomas volunteered to help him out, and on the way to the store he gave her a little background information.

"Her name's Helen Strey and she lives in Chicago," he said. "No, she doesn't like any particular sports that I know of. Of course, it's been a year since I've seen her, so I couldn't be sure—well, she's tall, and has brown hair and eyes, and—well, she's wonderful," he concluded, at a loss for description.

Jewelry or Perfume.
When Mrs. Thomas suggested jewelry, Sergeant Rutta grinned. "I gave her a ring a year ago yesterday, and that's the best jewelry I know of," he said. "Wish I'd asked her last night. We celebrated our anniversary with a half-hour telephone call."

After j-o-k-ing around for a while, Mrs. Thomas suggested perfume.

"Of course," he said. "I remember the kind she wore—used to kid her about it," he laughed. "It's called 'Indiscrete,' and I always said it was 'in-de-street.'"

Sniffers and Spray.
With the momentous problem of "what" settled, Mrs. Thomas sailed in among the sniffers and sprayers at the perfume counter and, buttonholing a saleslady, helped the sergeant get the kind and size he wanted.

And she didn't stop at that. Back at the Service Men's Center, she wrapped it up in fancy Christmas tissue and ribbon and handed it to the grateful sergeant with a smile.

After thanking her, Sergeant Rutta walked out of the Center whistling, a great load off his mind and the package tucked under his arm, and you can be sure he'll tell his buddies all about it.

The shopping service, which is under the direction of Mrs. Dan Plaster, will continue down at the Center until Christmas.

Weighty Discussion Of Commas Next On Poll Tax Menu

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Filibustering southern senators baffled backers of the anti-poll tax bill again today, and announced that they would divert most, if not all, of tomorrow's senate session to weighty discussions of misplaced commas.

All the parliamentary stratagems in the book were trotted out today as Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, majority leader, tried in vain to call up the measure outlawing the poll tax as a requirement for voting in elections involving federal offices.

(States levying such a poll tax are Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, Virginia and Texas.)

The parliamentary situation is such that if Barkley can move, during the first two hours of a senate session, to take the bill up for consideration, his motion is not debatable.

But Barkley could not make the motion today because the southerners resorted to such time-consuming devices as nine quorum calls, and a roll call on a motion by Senator O'Daniel, Democrat, Texas, to consider a bill prohibiting liquor and vice in the vicinity of military establishments.

O'Daniel's motion was beaten, 44 to 19.

Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, told reporters tonight the southerners probably would insist upon the reading tomorrow of the journal of today's proceedings and "a correction of any inaccuracies which may appear."

"There might," he said, "be a lot of misplaced commas in the journal that require correction and debate."

19 enemy planes had been set afire on the Tunisian airfield.

There was no confirmation of German reports that the Italian fleet had ventured into the western Mediterranean.

The German high command communicate reduced its claims of U-boat action against Allied shipping to the statement that a single, 6,000-ton steamer had been torpedoed. This likewise went unconfirmed.

The Germans also reported an air raid against the Allied base at Bone, Algeria, 60 miles from the Tunisian border.

Meanwhile the Vichy radio said two Allied battleships, two aircraft carriers, four cruisers and nine destroyers left Gibraltar and steamed eastward into the Mediterranean.

The Morocco radio said General Dwight D. Eisenhower, American commander of the whole North African expedition, had moved his headquarters eastward to be nearer the scene of Tunisian battle.

An ordinarily reliable foreign source also reported that Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander of the German U-boat fleet, had established his own headquarters at Marseille, France's great Mediterranean port.

Unofficial reports said new American contingents were disembarking at several points on the North African coast.

Up to last night the word from official Allied sources was that the powerful British-American force under General Kenneth A. N. Anderson, commander of the British First army, was moving into Tunisia from Algeria "as fast as possible, according to plan."

It was obvious, however, that preliminary action in Tunisia was being fought by this combined force in addition to the holding operations which are being conducted against the German invaders by those French troops who have rallied to the banner of General Henri Giraud.

The army's Axis announcement of the "landing" of troops in Tunisia indicated strongly that Hitler had chosen the protectorate for his last, desperate stand in all of Africa.

To the east, in Libya, the main body of the beaten German Africa corps and its straggling Italian allies had fled at last to the vicinity of El Agheila, below the Gulf of Sirie.

There, the exhausted remains of Marshal Erwin Rommel's once-proud army of the desert was being mercilessly punished by British air attack.

Escape Point Burning.
The nearest port of escape, Bengasi, was burning from the bombs of United States heavy aircraft.

There was no sign that the enemy columns in Libya would make a stand at El Agheila, or even stem their rout short of Tripoli.

One report said Rommel, himself, had been called to Munich by Hitler to "explain."

From Malta, long-range fighters and bombers of the RAF struck alternately, by both day and night, at the Axis concentrations at the airport near Tunis, the capital of Tunisia.

Three times between late Saturday and Sunday, RAF fighters and bombers of the Tunisian Air Force pounded the Axis El Agheila airfield outside Tunis.

In the first attack, at dusk Saturday, twin-engine fighters bombed six grounded transports and bombers.

After dark, bombers made two low-level attacks with both high explosive and incendiary bombs. One of the fighters flew so low that the RAF skinned under high tension cables, and the bombers came back to base covered with bricks and mortar tossed up by the explosion of their bombs.

No RAF Planes Lost.
One Heinkel seaplane was shot to pieces en route to the target. No RAF planes were lost.

An Allied announcement broadcast from the Morocco radio said the Axis, in an unstated period, had lost 42 planes off the Tunisian coast, apparently while attacking Allied shipping. It said a total of

Text of Navy's Sea Victory Communique

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The text of Navy communique No. 194 follows:

"1. The following resume of recent events in the Solomon Islands area is based on preliminary reports from the battle area and is necessarily incomplete.

2. Air reconnaissance during the early days of this month revealed a heavy concentration of Japanese transports, cargo ships and combatant units of the enemy fleet in the Solomon region. An attempt by the enemy to recapture our positions in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area of the southeastern Solomon was indicated, and on November 10 it became evident that the expedition was being launched in force.

3. Japanese Naval forces approached the southeastern Solomons from the north, as other detachments, including many transports, moving southeastward toward Guadalcanal from Rabaul and Buin, where expeditionary forces had been assembling.

4. General MacArthur's aircraft were of great assistance to our Naval forces, both before and during the battle. Army bombers made repeated successful attacks on units of the Japanese invasion fleet at Rabaul and Buin. (These attacks were announced by United Nations headquarters in Australia.)

5. The spearhead of the Japanese attack was a force composed of two battleships of the Kongo class and a number of other vessels believed to have been two heavy cruisers, four light cruisers and 10 destroyers. This unit reached the Guadalcanal area shortly after midnight on the morning of November 13, intending to bombard our shore positions prior to a large-scale landing from a large group of transports which had been observed in the Buin-Shortland area. This Japanese bombardment force was formed in three groups. As they approached the shore positions, they were engaged by units of our fleet and the ensuing battle was fought at close range. It was during this engagement that Daniel J. Callaghan, U. S. N., was killed in action. During this furious night engagement, the Japanese seemed confused and during the latter part of the battle, two of the three Japanese groups were firing at each other. Shortly thereafter, the enemy fire ceased and the Japanese withdrew from the battle and retired toward the north.

6. During the day of November 13, U. S. aircraft made continuous attacks on damaged Japanese ships which remained in the area. During the late afternoon a large formation of at least 12 transports, headed toward Guadalcanal from the Bougainville area. As a preliminary to the proposed landing an enemy surface force bombarded our positions at Guadalcanal shortly after midnight on the morning of November 14. Later in the morning, as the transport group drew near to Guadalcanal, it was struck lied supremacy on the seas. The Solomons battle, while not of course giving the United States dominance in the whole Pacific area, appeared likely to hasten the day when that goal will be attained.

Even the death of Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, beloved "Uncle Dan" to many a Navy man and former naval aide to President Roosevelt, revealed a heavy night engagement which opened the three-day battle in the early morning of November 13 could not damp the elation with which naval officers announced the victory.

In a lengthy communique, the Navy described the various actions in which the American forces had sunk a Japanese battleship, three heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, five destroyers and eight transports, destroyed the four beachhead transports, and damaged a battleship and six destroyers.

Preparations for a major attempt by the Japanese to recapture the southeastern Solomons became evident early this month, the Navy reported, when aerial reconnaissance revealed a heavy concentration of transports and warships of the enemy fleet in New Britain and the northwestern Solomons.

The huge expedition got under way the morning of November 10 with Japanese naval forces approaching Guadalcanal from the north, while other detachments, including large numbers of transports, moved southward toward the American positions from Rabaul and Buin, where the enemy had been assembling its expeditionary forces.

The Navy credited the Army bombers of General Douglas MacArthur's command with supplying "great assistance" in the early phase of the looming fight, by making repeated successful attacks on the invasion fleet at Rabaul and Buin, as reported in communique from Australia. MacArthur's aircraft also gave valuable aid after the action developed.

The Japanese expedition moved toward Guadalcanal behind a warship spearhead of two battleships, two heavy cruisers, four light cruisers and about 10 destroyers, which had been noted in a major naval battle on the night of November 12.

It was their intention, said the communique, to bombard Navy-Marine forces ashore in preparation for a large-scale landing from the following transports. The battle units moved to the attack in three groups.

However, instead of the easy conquest they expected, they ran into units of the United States fleet, which engaged them in a major naval battle on the night of November 12. The Japanese were not only landing telling blows on the Japanese warships but creating such confusion in the enemy fleet that before the fight was over two of the three Japanese groups were firing at each other. Instead of escorting their waiting soldiers ashore, they ceased firing and, in the restrained language of the communique, "retired to the northward."

Later during the day of November 13, American planes kept up a continual running attack on the damaged enemy ships still trying to limp away from the scene of fighting, and in the afternoon the planes discovered 12 transports under heavy naval escort headed for Guadalcanal from the vicinity of Bougainville Island, 260 miles to the northeast.

The warships moved up that night and bombarded the American positions on Guadalcanal, but before the transports could move up the morning of November 14 they were caught offshore by aircraft, and eight of them were sunk, leaving four—probably those found later at Tassafaronga—proceeding toward the island.

Punishment

The punishment dealt out to the Japanese fleet in this battle brought the enemy's losses in the Solomons to date, as reported by Navy communique, to 25 ships sunk, 5 probably sunk and 71 damaged, or 111 vessels of all types sunk and damaged.

Against this, the United States has reported the loss of 24 ships sunk, including two aircraft carriers and three cruisers, and at least 5 damaged. In addition, the Australian cruiser Canberra was sunk while operating as part of the naval force covering the initial American landings in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area.

In detailing the composition of the enemy armada smashed in the recent action, the communique significantly mentioned no aircraft carriers—the first time since the Pacific war started that their presence has not been noted in a major naval engagement. The Japanese lost six of the eight with which they entered the war before the latest fighting opened and may be having serious difficulty in replacing them in view of their limited industrial production.

Decisive Battle.

The battle was a decisive one by the enemy's own admission—but the opposite way from which Tokyo apparently meant it. The Berlin radio yesterday quoted the newspaper Asahi Shimbun as saying that it "would decisively influence the whole war situation."

Perhaps to pave the way for acknowledgment of some of the painful results of the latest Solomons fighting, the Japanese high command issued today an exaggerated account of the Solomons action of October 26, claiming to

Nazis' Hardest Soviet Winter Is Coming, Moscow Promises

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Moscow weather note as heard by CBS: "We (Russians) can now positively say that the second winter on the Russian front will be the hardest and most severe that the Nazi army has ever experienced, and not on account of the weather, considering the radical changes that have taken place in the past few days in weather conditions in Africa, too."

have sunk three aircraft carriers including the Enterprise and Hornet, one battleship, three cruisers and a destroyer and to have damaged six other American warships.

The 52-year-old Callaghan was Naval aide to President Roosevelt from 1938 to 1941.

Presumably the admiral was buried at sea, since fighting was still in progress.

Callaghan's Naval career began with an appointment to Annapolis in 1907. Graduating in 1911, he went to sea aboard the battleship California, and the next year participated in the first Nicaraguan campaign.

Transferred in 1913 to the destroyer Truxtun, he saw two years of duty on patrol off the west coast of Mexico before he was assigned to the cruiser New Orleans on convoy duty during the first World War. Various assignments ashore and at sea followed, but it was not until he was given command of the cruiser San Francisco at the end of his tour of duty at the White House in 1941 that he first took over an independent command at sea.

Callaghan was described by a Naval spokesman as "a grog, a gunner, a seaman and a fine seaman."

His ship, the San Francisco, was in Pearl Harbor for repairs when the Japanese struck at the great Naval base last December 7. Later he took the vessel to the South Pacific, but left her to become chief of staff to Vice Admiral Robert L. Ghormley, then commanding U. S. Naval forces in that area.

It was the San Francisco, which lost 30 of her crew last week when a disabled and burning Japanese plane crashed on her deck off Guadalcanal, but there was no indication that Callaghan was aboard the cruiser at that time.

A need more important command at sea in the South Pacific followed Callaghan's tour as chief of staff to Ghormley and it was while he was carrying out his duties in this assignment that he was killed.

Callaghan was the third Naval officer of flag rank to lose his life since this country entered the war. Rear Admiral Isaac C. Kidd was killed aboard the battleship Arizona at Pearl Harbor, and Rear Admiral John W. Wilcox Jr. was lost overboard in the Atlantic several months ago.

Surviving Callaghan are his wife, Mrs. Mary T. Callaghan, of Oakland, Cal., and their son, Lieutenant (jg.) Daniel J. Callaghan Jr., U. S. Naval Reserve, now on active duty at the Subchaser Training Center, Miami, Fla.

General Patton Misses Death When French Demolish Ship

By WES GALLAGHER.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Major General George S. Patton Jr., commander of the American task force which occupied Morocco, literally stepped into a German naval battle at the start of the operation eight days ago, it was disclosed tonight in a special communique issued by General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Commanding both General Patton and Rear Admiral G. K. Hewitt for their combined assault on a 200-mile front of Atlantic coast, General Eisenhower reported that a small landing boat which General Patton was about to enter from his ship was demolished by a French gun.

"For the next couple of hours General Patton became an unwilling spectator of a naval battle," a communique said, "with his transfer to shore necessarily postponed until the warship he was on could settle affairs with its opponents." German claims of sinking 89 Allied ships around the ports of Africa meanwhile were authoritatively described here as "entirely exaggerated, even beyond the usual German naval claims."

Miss Bennett Reads News And Turns Up

Former Actress Sees Paper and Announces Whereabouts.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 16. (P)—Police Chief C. H. Anderson said today he had been advised Barbara Bennett, former screen actress and object of a widespread search since Saturday night, has been located at the home of friends.

Anderson said Miss Bennett's husband, film cowboy Addison Randall, notified him by telephone that Miss Bennett was safe, and that further investigation was not necessary.

Randall, said Anderson, reported that Miss Bennett had been in the home of James Doane, actor's agent, and Mrs. Doane since Friday night, when she had a dinner date there, but Barbara told reporters:

"I didn't feel like keeping the engagement. Friday night so I called Mrs. Doane and went to a girl friend's house. Saturday morning I went to a rest home and registered under another name.

"This morning I felt divine and thought maybe I could get work. As I was leaving the place, I saw the paper—Barbara Bennett Fears Dead. I couldn't think that it was me. I called Mrs. Doane to come and get me."

Randall tonight denied reports that he and Miss Bennett are separating.

"There is no estrangement," he said. "I am going to San Francisco to take another engagement. Miss Bennett is staying here. There is no formal separation, although it might turn into that."

Randall said he is taking a job as manager of a theater. Asked if he was through with pictures he replied: "They're through with me."

A spokesman at Fighting French headquarters warned that underground resistance to Laval and the Germans in France might collapse if the rule of Vichy leaders like Admiral Jean Darlan received Allied support in North Africa.

This spokesman, who declined to be quoted by name, said that Frenchmen in France understand the Allies want to liberate France; but they will not understand why they must wait until after the war for the liberation of French territory already in Allied hands.

Patriots Resist.
Many French patriots in North Africa got into trouble with Vichy authorities there, he explained, by resisting Vichy measures and trying to keep alive the faith in an Allied victory. Some of them even attempted a revolt at Casablanca to help the American forces landing there, and when the revolt was put down they were jailed by Vichy authorities.

So far, no word has been received that any of these North African De Gaulleists have been released, the spokesman continued; but on the other hand, Admiral Darlan of the collaborationist Vichy government has emerged as the leading figure of the new regime in North Africa.

The headquarters spokesman emphasized particularly that:

Vichy Orders.
1. When the American operations began in North Africa the Vichy government ordered arms resistance as a result of which American blood was shed.

2. This resistance was most effective and most deadly where the French units concerned were in closest contact with Admiral Darlan—that is, where ships of the French Navy participated.

In France proper, he said, the underground resistance to the Nazis has been carried on by organizations grouped around the leadership of General Charles de Gaulle, who has consistently refused to compromise with Vichy or the Germans. Now that the United States no longer maintains relations with Vichy and no longer obtains information from inside France by this means, the underground has become more important than ever.

But the underground cannot continue its effectiveness, he said, unless the people risking their lives in its activities are confident that wherever French territory comes into Allied hands the Vichy influence will be rooted out and the laws and liberties of the French republic restored.

He added that anti-Semitic measures introduced by Vichy still were enforced in North Africa at last reports.

Fighting French Bar Talk With 'Traitor' Darlan

a statement explaining a British civil liaison officer had been attached to the office of Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower, American commander of all Allied forces in North Africa, to "keep his majesty's government informed of political developments."

Eisenhower himself has made no comment except that the present arrangement was working well.

In the midst of the furor, the Vichy radio announced that Marshall Petain had stripped Darlan of all his public functions and military commands—the powers under which Darlan insists he still acts with the marshal's mandate.

Darlan fell into American hands—whether by prearrangement or accident was not yet clear—the first day the Americans landed at Algiers in North Africa.

Cease Resistance Order.
Three days later he issued orders "in the name of the marshal (Petain)" to his forces to cease resistance to the Allies, and subsequently announced with the apparent approval of General Eisenhower that he was representing French interests in North Africa.

He also announced General Henri Honore Giraud, the escape artist who slipped from a German prison much to the embarrassment of Vichy and bobbed up in North Africa at the right moment, had been made commander of French North African armed forces.

Until Darlan seemed to take the power into his hands, it had appeared General Giraud was the Allies' man in North Africa.

The Vichy radio announced that Petain had repudiated all the acts of Darlan in surrendering and in permitting French forces to oppose the Axis in Tunisia.

Darlan Replies.
Darlan, broadcasting from the Morocco radio last night, said in reply that since the Germans had occupied all France Petain no longer dared express his real thoughts—the implication being that the old marshal was not acting of his free will and that secretly Darlan still had the approval of his chief at Vichy.

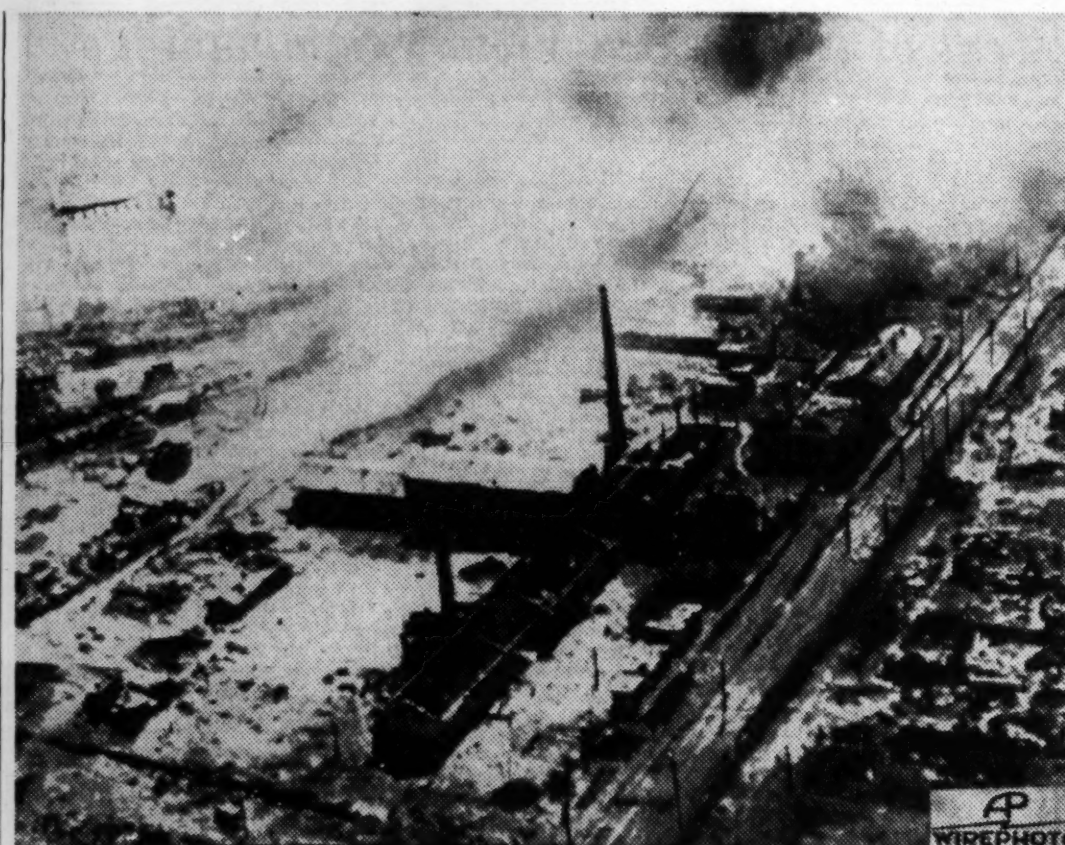

In response the Vichy station announced that Darlan had "placed himself outside the national community" and was deprived of his offices.

The Berlin radio, describing the situation in Vichy as tense, said today: "It may be considered certain that the problem of succession to the state chief will be solved."

City Rates High in Civilian Defense

Expenditure of $37,700 for civilian defense by Atlanta for the past fiscal year was exceeded only by west coast and large cities of the eastern seaboard, according to the Municipal Finance News Letter, official publication of the Municipal Finance Officers' Association of the United States and Canada.

New York City led the nation with an appropriation of $2,373,000 for the year. Philadelphia was second with $565,000, and Seattle, Wash., third with $500,000. Long Beach, Cal., expended $185,941, while Detroit provided $222,714. During the current or next fiscal year other large outlays are expected, with New York providing another $1,088,494; Chicago, $800,000; Detroit, $747,407; Philadelphia, $600,000; Boston, $413,350; Oakland, $346,300; Long Beach, $719,411; Seattle, $147,092.

Polio Birthday Fetes Okayed By Roosevelt

Fight Against Paralysis Must Go On, Says President.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(P)—President Roosevelt has authorized the celebration of his birthday in January for the annual fund-raising drive in the fight against infantile paralysis, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced today.

Mr. Roosevelt, in answer to a letter from O'Connor urging that the celebration be held despite the war, said:

"I feel as you do—that any interruption in this work would be extremely inadvisable unless absolutely necessary. Until it is definitely known how to prevent a disease from occurring or how to prevent it from spreading, the threat of that disease—if it is epidemic—is one of our greatest dangers."

Martin Woody Fouche, 91, retired south Georgia farmer, died yesterday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. M. T. Horne, at 243 Fourteenth street, N. E., after an illness of four months.

In addition to the daughter, he is survived by four other daughters, Mrs. Allie Fouche; Mrs. J. C. Halley, Buena Vista; Mrs. M. S. Halley, Albany; Mrs. J. A. Garrett, Meigs; two sons, S. R. Fouche, Montgomery, Ala., and R. E. Fouche.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Harry G. Poole.

Fort Benning Soldiers Buy War Bonds

FORT BENNING, Ga., Nov. 16. (P)—Hundreds of soldiers in training here paid more than $170,000 in war bonds yesterday for the privileges of attending what post authorities believe to have been the first war bond breakfast sponsored by an Army post.

The soldiers, many of them high-ranking officers, heard Pierre J. Huss, former Berlin manager of International News Service and now a private in the United States Army, discuss the effect United States action in North Africa would have on the German war machine.

"This is the first time that Hitler has seen the handwriting on the wall," Huss said. "His ego has had a severe shock and his intuition has reached the zero point. He is slipping and he knows it."

Decisions which must be made within the next few days were described by Huss as "the most desperate and fatal" yet to confront the German leader.

President Hubert Dedicates School

WHITE PLAINS, Ga., Nov. 16. (P)—Benjamin F. Hubert, president of Georgia State College, speaking at dedicatory exercises here yesterday for a new four-teacher colored school, said: "This school is an evidence of the spirit of co-operation between southern white and colored people, and is a sign of progress when a one-teacher school is made into a four-teacher school."

The new building replaces a school at which one teacher formerly taught.

Brady Will Continue To Name Doctors

By Dr. William Brady.

Young William kept chuckling to himself. "What amuses you, William?" asked his mother. "Aw, I was thinking how dumb Papo" (William's name for his grandpa) "must have been that time when he got lost here when I was his age." "Yes?" said William's mother. "And what did that mean—hammer horses?" "Aw, Papo's father was a backsmith and shoe horses. Mammy, do you think Papo really was as dumb as that when he was as old as I am?"

All joking aside I do believe that the normal or average I. Q. of eight-year-old children of my time must have been about that of five-year-olds today. We live and learn, not only individually but as a race in the process of evolution.

Hippocrates, Father of Medicine, taught his followers this code of medical ethics: "Do good if you can, but do no harm." These were not his words but the teaching was his.

A few months ago I announced here that, owing to the absence of so many physicians in military service and the great difficulty of maintaining live lists I should discontinue naming or recommending physicians skilled in this or that method, for the duration of the war.

Many protests against this decision arrived. I was adamant about it. After all most such readers, having received the information they requested, were never again heard from, and only a minority of the doctors I recommended to such inquirers ever took time out to let me know that a reader I had "referred" had actually undergone treatment. So I thought it was largely love's labor lost.

But then came this remonstrance from a reader:

"Having personally benefited through your recommendation of a competent practitioner of the ambulant treatment of hemorrhoids, I wonder whether it wouldn't be better to continue giving such help rather than have one or more of your readers fall into the hands of charlatans because of failure to supply names of practitioners you can conscientiously recommend . . . and so keep the Dr. Brady column as helpful as ever, even if the nation is at war."

Darn it all. I know what Hip-poocrates would say about it. My decision was hasty and wrong. I'm sorry. It is now revoked. As long as this column or a reasonable part of it is printed I shall of course be putting inquirers in touch with such physicians when readers request it and supply a stamped self-addressed envelope to bring the answer in personal letter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Asthma. My husband had an asthmatic condition for some time. He had to get up at 4 a. m. and cough until cleared up. I sent for your pamphlet on "Bronchial Asthma" and the one on "Relief for Allergy." On a Saturday began taking the potassium as suggested therein and on the following Tuesday night he slept comfortably all night and has been almost entirely free of the trouble now for several weeks—the first time in years. (Mrs. P. B. M.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. The potassium treatment is only a symptomatic relief, I believe. Perhaps increased assimilation and cause of failure to supply names of practitioners you can conscientiously recommend . . . and so keep the Dr. Brady column as helpful as ever, even if the nation is at war."

Darn it all. I know what Hip-

Mineral Oil. I heard a nutritionist say in a lecture that the use of mineral oil in place of olive oil or vegetable oil kills all the vitamins in green salads. Is this true?

Answer—Mineral oil in the alimentary tract interferes with assimilation of vitamins, and likewise interferes with assimilation of other essential elements of nutrition.

Skimmed Milk. Nicee thinks her children get the necessary benefit from skimmed milk, and I think they need whole milk, on account of the butter fat and vitamin A. Would appreciate your advice. (J. J. K.)

Answer—The children derive considerable benefit from skim milk (milk from which cream has been removed), but you are right, the cream (butter fat) contains most of the vitamin A, all of the D in milk.

Your Horoscope For Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—You should feel an air of permanency in your transactions today which will allow you to plan conservatively and diligently.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Do not make radical departures from old methods. New and exciting ideas may be very tempting, but not apt to work out in your favor.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Don't let delay or worry upset you physically. You may feel that you are unable to engineer things the way you want them to go.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—Guard against rashness, accidents and giving promises too quickly previous to 4:16 p. m. Things may not be moving as swiftly as you would wish.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—Do not try to carry out set plans. New ideas introduced by and to you may turn out better than they at first seem.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—You should be filled with a courage and confidence that will enable you to push your deals through today. Financial matters are especially favored.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—Avoid feelings of impatience or skepticism, and this should turn out to be an important day for dealings with important people.

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—Conferences, communications, dealings with relatives are favored during the entire day. During the afternoon and evening hours, see that you do not overdo, or waste your energies.

November 22-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—You seem to be asking things too much for granted, or maybe you are looking at affairs as you wish them to be, and not quietly, and try to see just what is what.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—Routine affairs are better the entire day. Be careful with money, and wait to purchase. However, if you are waiting to sell, some good results may be obtained.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)—You are likely to be confused, upset or worried over the outcome of some old matter—something that has probably been hanging fire. This is not likely to be as bad as it now appears.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—The advice of relatives and friends may be well worth listening to. Writings, conferences, communications are apt to be more than at first appear.

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—You should feel an air of permanency in your transactions today which will allow you to plan conservatively and diligently.

November 22-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—You seem to be asking things too much for granted, or maybe you are looking at affairs as you wish them to be, and not quietly, and try to see just what is what.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—Routine affairs are better the entire day. Be careful with money, and wait to purchase. However, if you are waiting to sell, some good results may be obtained.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)—You are likely to be confused, upset or worried over the outcome of some old matter—something that has probably been hanging fire. This is not likely to be as bad as it now appears.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—The advice of relatives and friends may be well worth listening to. Writings, conferences, communications are apt to be more than at first appear.

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—You should feel an air of permanency in your transactions today which will allow you to plan conservatively and diligently.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Do not make radical departures from old methods. New and exciting ideas may be very tempting, but not apt to work out in your favor.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Don't let delay or worry upset you physically. You may feel that you are unable to engineer things the way you want them to go.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—Guard against rashness, accidents and giving promises too quickly previous to 4:16 p. m. Things may not be moving as swiftly as you would wish.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—Do not try to carry out set plans. New ideas introduced by and to you may turn out better than they at first seem.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—You should be filled with a courage and confidence that will enable you to push your deals through today. Financial matters are especially favored.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—Avoid feelings of impatience or skepticism, and this should turn out to be an important day for dealings with important people.

'River Jordan Mural' Done By Former Atlanta Artist

By SALLY FORTH.

ATLANTA HAS a right to be proud of the "River Jordan Mural" which hangs in the Baptist church for colored brothers and sisters at Shiloh, Va., and is pictured at its unveiling in the current issue of Life magazine. The beautiful and religious oil painting is remarkably executed by Julien Binford III, a former Atlantan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julien Binford Jr., who reside at 80 Westminster drive.

He spent his boyhood in Atlanta, attended the public schools, graduated from Tech High, and enrolled at the Emory Medical College, expecting to become a physician, because so many men in his family have followed that honored profession. His exceptional talent in art was recognized by his mentors through his illustrations in textbooks, and they advised him to cultivate his gift. When he gave up the study of medicine, Julien became a junior instructor of art at the High Museum of Art.

The first evidence of Julien's talent, to quote his mother, was shown in an oil painting depicting Boy Scouts carrying on their rituals in the out-of-doors, which he painted when he was six years old. He won the scholarship offered by the Chicago Institute of Art, which entitled him to go to Paris to be instructed by famous French teachers. It was in Paris that he met his beautiful wife, the former Countess Elizabeth de Vautour, and they returned to the United States and settled in Powhatan county in Virginia.

He chose this section of the country because his parents' ancestors have lived there for many generations. In Norwood, the home wherein his charming mother was born and reared, is built on acres and acres of Powhatan county land. He bought an old stone foundry built during the Revolutionary War, which he expects to remodel in the near future.

The Binfords call their white clapboard home "The Shack," and herein they are dwelling for the present. Julien waxed and rubbed down the cedar wood which lines the walls of his wife's bedroom, and gave similar treatment to the pine wood which forms the walls of his bedroom. He installed the plumbing, wired the house for electricity, and seems able to fix everything necessary toward making his home more livable.

To go back to the "River Jordan Mural," the colored people at Shiloh had no money to pay for the painting, but their good neighbor, Artist Julien Binford, descendant of the famous old Binford family of Virginia, whose lands these Negroes had worked for eight generations, answered the prayers of these people. He asked in payment only whatever farm produce they could spare from their lands, and the foodstuffs given Julien will last the Binfords all winter.

The artist painted the Son of God emerging from the clouds in a blaze of glory above the River Jordan. Once a year, when the baptismal ceremony is held in the church, the picture will be rolled back from the pulpit to the baptistry, wherein converts will be baptized.

Artist Binford is the brother of William Kennon Binford and Mrs. H. L. Howell, of Atlanta; Mrs. E. C. Wood, of Virginia Beach, Va., and Mrs. H. B. Booth, of Charlotte, N. C.

THOUGH the Phi Psi have not yet elected freshmen officers, the other three high school sororities have announced their elections, and here are the results. Margaret Graham heads the Pi Phi freshmen as president, and Julia Leonard is secretary-treasurer. Elizabeth Williams has been chosen president of the new members of O. B. X., and Alice Jean Caswell is secretary and treasurer.

As for Sigma Delta, the freshmen officers are Charlotte Sullivan, president; Missie Harrison, vice president; Mary Hardin, secretary; Janet Cheves, treasurer, and Martha Johns, sergeant-at-arms.

Two dances are scheduled for this week in the sorority group. Next Friday evening the O. B. X. will give a script dance at Hurst Hall, and the Phi Psi freshman dance is planned for Saturday evening in the ballroom of the Biltmore.

The Sigma Delta freshman dance is planned for Saturday evening, December 12, in the Pompeian Room of the Biltmore.

THE MOST exciting news of the week concerns the first of the season's buds to forego debating for housekeeping! And next Sunday is the date she has chosen for the formal announcement of her interesting plans.

Her decision to be married before she really has had time to become a full-fledged debutante is not as hasty as it seems, since she and her handsome fiancé have had romantic ideas about each other for a long time. So in no sense can the nuptials be alluded to as a "war marriage."

To say much more than that

"I'm marrying over the weekend"

We've heard that phrase so much since the war started that out we went to learn—how on a few hours' notice a girl can get a trousseau, including white satin and veil—a church decorated, a supper arranged—and do it all in a few hours.

Nelle, nationally known bridal expert at Regenstein's Peachtree, gave us a few tips . . . in fact let us see the week-end wedding routine at work all the way from choosing THE dress to decorating the church, and all working with a smooth hocus-pocus that leaves you marveling.

Nelle, it seems, can turn out weddings like Mr. Kaiser can turn out ships, and with no bottleneck in production. And—she asks—why not? She's been in the game a long time, has managed some of the most famous weddings in the country, and her store is geared to do the job. So maybe it comes from knowing the game and knowing how to make the wheels go round.

Said Nelle: "Pretty by the way, with dark eyes and a nice smile." "One of the loveliest weddings I ever did was that of one of America's great heiresses. We keyed the colors to the beautiful stained windows of the chapel—put lighting behind the windows—used nothing but candlelight elsewhere. The bridesmaids' dresses were velvet in stained glass shades and carried huge shaggy gold chrysanthemums. The effect was breathlessly lovely."

When we departed, after hearing "I'm going to be married over the weekend" a half-dozen times, Nelle greeted another prospective bride. Guess what the prospective bride was saying. Yes . . . you're right, "I'm going to be married over the weekend."

This girl Nelle seems to be a convenient person to know if you're going to be married over the weekend—that is, if you want a beautiful wedding—and a correct wedding.

MRS. ARTHUR F. REES III, OF ST. LOUIS.

Miss Emily Leach Marries Arthur Rees III in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 16.—Of social importance here and in the south is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Willafor Leach, of Atlanta and Sewall's Point, Fla., of the marriage of their second daughter, Miss Emily Frances Leach, to Arthur F. Rees III, formerly of St. Louis, Mo., and now stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training School.

The ceremony was performed here on Sunday at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Leighton Smith, at 78 North Harding road, in the presence of only members of the immediate families. Rev. Virgil Foster officiated.

The bride has been enrolled at Wellesley, where she has been an outstanding student, majoring in languages. She speaks French and Spanish fluently, having studied Spanish last summer at the University of Mexico. She won the fancy diving contest at Wellesley last year, and this fall was elected to the Literary Society. She was valedictorian of her class when she was graduated from the Graham-Eckes School in Palm Beach, Florida.

The tall and stately bride possesses exotic brunet coloring. She has enjoyed wide popularity in Atlanta and in north Georgia she is pretty, blond, and possesses more than the average share of charm and intelligence, would betray a confidence, would not Sally's privilege to disclose. However, it may be added that she is one of Atlanta's loveliest and most popular belles, that she was a Pi Phi at North Fulton, and that Pi Beta Phi is her college sorority. But to reveal the type of work with which she is occupied would be to confuse her with a sister debutante, who also happens to be a blonde!

ATLANTA music lovers will turn green with envy to learn that Russell and Katherine Haverty Bellman will be in attendance at the brilliant opening of the Metropolitan Opera season in New York next Monday evening. One reason is that Lily Pons, an especial favorite with Atlantans, will sing the title role in "The Daughter of the Regiment," the gay and colorful opera in which she charmed a capacity audience here last spring.

Katie already is in New York and will be joined by Russell within the next few days. During the absence of their parents, the Bellmans' young daughter and son will be chaperoned by Russell's mother, Mrs. John Bellman, of Louisville, Ky., who already is visiting at their residence on Andrews drive.

GLIMPSED here and there: Margaret Harmon sitting under the hair-drier in the beauty parlor, with her black cocker spaniel curled up at her feet. . . . Mary Ruth Clayton, debutante, and escort enjoying the Sunday evening smorgasbord at the Driving Club, the former accenting her black costume with a lavender orchid. . . . Martha Frost and Josephine Sanders, who are learning to teach instrument flying at the Naval Reserve Aviation Base, having supper together at a restaurant, and wearing dark blue slacks with white blouses. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Howard See and their attractive daughter, Dorothy See, dropping by the Driving Club for a cocktail. . . . Frances Shumate, whose grade in abnormal psychology at Wesleyan College is the highest ever awarded a student in that subject.

Blue Birds, junior members of the organization are invited to attend the ceremonials and to participate in these services of Thanksgiving.

Beer Retailers Get Details of War Problems

Points in 'Clean Up or Close Up' Program Discussed.

Five retailer meetings were held by Judge John S. Wood, state director of the Georgia Committee of the Brewing Industry Foundation, in a swing through south Georgia last week, which also saw action taken against four retail beer outlets found guilty of offensive operating practices.

The meetings with retailers, designed to give them a detailed explanation of the "clean up or close up" program and to discuss with them the new problems brought about by the war, were held at Bainbridge, Thomasville, Blackshear, Jesup and Hinesville. In all of those areas large numbers of soldiers are stationed, and in his talks to the dealers Judge Wood emphasized the vital importance of providing clean, decent places where men in uniform may enjoy their leisure hours. Police chiefs and sheriffs in all of the places visited co-operated fully in urging the retailers in their sections to attend.

State Director Wood presented to local licensing bodies petitions

Gillman Warns Public On 'False' CIO Agent

A statement denying any connection with a man reported falsely representing the Congress of Industrial Organizations was issued yesterday by C. H. Gillman, regional director.

"It has been reported to me by a reliable source," Gillman said, "that there is a person representing himself to be a CIO representative from St. Louis, Mo., guaranteeing certain business firms against any strikes or work stoppages of work for a price."

Gillman said he did not know the man "and he does not in any way speak for the Congress of Industrial Organizations in any capacity whatsoever, and I would appreciate very much the public's assistance in helping to run this down."

TO MAKE YOUR Victory
Quota
FOR 1942

WE HAVE A VICTORY QUOTA* TOO

A BILLION DOLLARS OF PRODUCTION THIS YEAR

THE decisions a man makes at the point of a bayonet are pretty serious. He doesn't have time to ask for advice, or search for precedents, or reflect: "How will this affect my future?"

Companies are a lot like people.... because they are people. And today many companies, which in their long lives have tried to be good, thoughtful citizens while advancing the world's work, like other good citizens are finding themselves at bayonet-point, with time not for debate or reflection—but only for action.

And so, although we at General Electric like to think that we set ourselves a 1942 production quota of a billion dollars in shipments, actually that quota was set for us—set by the guy with the bayonet.

A billion in shipments! * That is three times the normal pre-war G-E volume. And it is made up of more kinds of war products, we have been told, than any other American company is making. Some of them are old and familiar things, for which we have a special knack, such as turbines, generators, motors, ship-propulsion gears, radio equipment, searchlights, aircraft instruments, incandescent and fluorescent lamps, superchargers, and plastics.

Then there are others, military secrets without even a name. Once this year we took an eight-figure order for something that hadn't even been invented.

It took a lot of experienced scientists and engineers, new plants, and machinery to get our sights on that billion-dollar quota. It took a lot of production workers, too—there are now more than 165,500 in the G-E family, and more than a fourth of them are women.

More than courage and long hours of work have gone into this thing. When you're on the spot, you not only have to think fast, but you also have to give a little extra something to insure survival. For decades General Electric employees have been making valuable suggestions, drawing on their experience and knowledge to improve the job in hand. In 23 years, 132,665 such ideas have been used, and have brought $1,297,340 in awards to the men and women who made the suggestions. And in a year like 1942, with critical materials short and new production ideas worth their weight in human lives, the suggestion system has proved its worth anew. Already this year G-E employees have made 12,250 useful suggestions, which have brought them $115,000. What they will bring ultimately to the men who are fighting the long fight at the earth's far corners is much more important.

When black smoke hung tragically in the sky over Pearl Harbor and Cavite, in the disastrous December of 1941, more than 90 per cent of all General Electric's men and women had subscribed for War Bonds having a maturity value of $21,385,375. Six months later, 96.4 per cent of a much larger number of employees had pledged an average of 10.3 per cent of their earnings for buying Bonds. And now members of the General Electric family are buying War Bonds, by payroll subscription, at a rate of more than $58,000,000 a year.

These things we have done. These things any American would have done. These things we will continue to do—deliberately, determinedly, and relentlessly, until the last shot is fired and the last communique is issued.

If more men are needed, we will march. Over fourteen thousand men from the G-E family are already in the armed services.

If more production is needed, we will produce.

We will continue to buy War Bonds, and so will you. This is no time to argue with the business end of a bayonet. This is the time to fight.
